U.S. Moon To Soar At Dawn

Navy Experts
Rush Zero-Hour
Preparations

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—All is in readiness for the firing Wednesday of a slender rocket carrying America's hopes of duplicating Russia's leap into space, a navy spokesman said today.

If there have been any last-minute mechanical bugs in the navy's Vanguard missile, they have been of a minor and inconsequential nature, a source close to the firing operation said.

Only the weather could interfere with the firing, now expected for 8 a.m. E.S.T. (5 P.S.T.) Wednesday.

A weather front is expected to roll across the missile launching site some time Wednesday afternoon but too late to interfere with the firing if it goes off at the morning hour.

The navy source said everything in connection with the launching of the 72-foot, three-stage rocket that will attempt to put America's six-inch baby moon into an orbit is proceeding according to plan.

Several final checkouts were being repeated, however, to aim at perfection in the satellite launching.

Another source said that if anything had been wrong with the Vanguard it must have been strictly of a minor nature and had been corrected because there was no change in the firing schedule.

It requires good visibility and only moderate winds for a launching.

LET WORLD KNOW
If successfully orbited, the U.S. satellite will send back a radio signal to let the world know the challenge of Russia's two whirling satellites has been met.

The Vanguard test could be preceded today by the firing of a less spectacular missile, possibly a Snark, which is a long-range ramjet device hugging the earth's atmosphere at a speed slightly below that of sound.

Although billed as a scientific sideshow to the military tests going on here at a feverish pace, the scheduled Vanguard firing has brought the biggest crowds of newspapermen and official and unofficial observers here yet.

LONDON (UP)—The world's largest radio-telescope will not try to track the American earth satellite the way it did the Russian Sputnik, its director Professor A. C. B. Lovell said today. He said, the American satellite is too small.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Dear Father, I do not wish to escape from the demands for courageous living which each day brings. But I cannot face those demands alone. This day help me to feel the nearness of Thy presence so that I may find strength of Thy power. May my faith be equal to the demands of this particular day; through Christ. Amen.

DUTCH LINES SEIZED BY INDONESIAN UNIONS

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian union workers stretching out their government-sponsored strike against Dutch enterprises took over two Dutch shipping lines today.
The Indonesian newspaper Keng Po said workers also had taken over the Dutch-owned Geo Whery Trading Company on an order purportedly issued by an army major.

Theft Threat Cancels Show Of Goya Book

Art Gallery Exhibition Off
Following Telephone Message

Fourteen words slurred into a telephone forced cancellation of the world's first exhibition today of the Goya sketch book that recently put Victoria on the international art treasures map.

The cloak-and-daggerish twist of an anonymous telephone tip added another strange chapter to the story surrounding the 200-year-old sketch book, discovered to be a Goya after being auctioned for $20 here, and now valued at $465,000.

"I just want to warn you, there is guys out to get your Goyas," an uneducated, male voice told Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery, at 7:45 p.m. Monday.

TOOK NO CHANCES

Crank or criminal?
Mr. Graham and Cmdr. P. F. Fairfull, gallery president, didn't know but they took no chances.

After consultation with owner J. P. E. Klavervyden, they cancelled the two-day exhibition which was to have started this morning.

The call came only hours after the gallery had started.

Russians Urge Peaceful End To Algeria Strife

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia called today for an end to the fighting in Algeria and urged a peaceful solution beneficial to both the French and Algerians.

In an unusually mild speech, delegate Arkady Sobolev told the UN's 82-nation political committee that all people have a right to freedom and self-government.

But, he added, Russia recognizes the existence of France's special ties with Algeria and would welcome an agreement that would be to the interest of both sides.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Day's Donations Highest

Victorians cracked the "donation barrier" Monday by giving $669 to the Times' "T-Bricks for Korea" Fund.

They beat last Friday's donation high by $69 to bring today's total to $2,499.

Korean youngsters who are asking only for healthy bodies may yet have their happiest Christmas ever.

But before Victoria can give them a Christmas gift of a children's TB outpatients' pavilion, we need $9,500. And there are only 22 donating days before Christmas.

Brick by brick, Times' readers are building that pavilion in the war-saddened city of Seoul. The Hotel Douglas led Monday's donations with $100-1,000 bricks.

The boys' Hi-Y Club of Esquimalt High School followed close behind with a generous donation of $25.

One of the most touching donations came from a Victorian who wishes to remain anonymous "in gratitude for pension increase." The pensioner enclosed $10—one dollar more than the federal increase on pension cheques at the end of November.

Many other donations are coming from people who give in the memory of late loved ones. Donations for the TB pavilion may be sent to the Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or to the Times main office, Broad Street.

Cheques should be payable to the Unitarian Services Committee "T-Bricks for Korea." Receipts are sent for each donation. (See donors, Page 2.)

The Star story says: "It is now generally accepted belief in the newspaper industry that the 10-cent price will soon be general in most metropolitan centres."

TORONTO (CP)—The Star announced its street-sale price will be doubled to 10 cents from five cents, effective Monday, Dec. 9.

The rate for home delivery will be increased to 55 cents a week from 35 cents at the same time.

The Star said the higher price is made necessary by steadily mounting production costs.

WHERE CARRIER BOY MET DEATH

Tragic evidence of the death of newspaper carrier boy, David Clarke, 19, was examined early today by Central Saanich Constable F. W. Wenden at the scene of a crash between the boy's paper-laden bicycle and a car on Patricia Bay Highway. Rear wheel of the bike was crushed as the boy was thrown to ground.

Ike Asks Congress For More

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower outlined to congressional leaders today plans for a $2,000,000,000 increase in the defence budget, devoted primarily to missiles and anti-submarine equipment.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) of the Senate Republican policy committee said as he came out of a five-hour White House conference that the president told the Congress members he will ask for $3,940,000,000 in foreign aid funds.

This compares with $3,436,000,000 appropriated in Congress this year in new money for mutual security.

Bridges told reporters that despite economies which may be made elsewhere, a $2,000,000,000 increase in military spending will carry the defence budget figure above $40,000,000,000.

PRESIDES 3 1/2 HOURS

Eisenhower himself spent 2 1/2 hours in the session, taking part in the opening portion devoted to plans for the NATO summit meeting starting in Paris Dec. 16, and coming back for the defence discussion later.

Vice-President Richard Nixon took over the chair while the president, recuperating rapidly from the mild stroke he suffered eight days ago, was absent.

A major item reported under discussion in the NATO program part of the talk was reported to be a revision of the law to permit much broader exchange of nuclear weapons information with U.S. allies.

The law as it now stands allows exchange of information on nuclear power plants but forbids giving out information on weapons design or transferring such weapons themselves.

Summit Talk Rejection Hit

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith said today he is "distressed" and "disturbed" that whenever Russia proposes high-level discussion among the major powers, "unnamed, unidentified official spokesmen in Washington" reject the proposals out of hand.

The minister, undergoing questioning by the Commons external affairs committee during consideration of his department's $38,500,000 estimates, said "the time now has come to take a new look in respect of our relations with Soviet Russia."

There should be no delay in that regard, consistent with maintaining the West's defence. Recent advances in science had presented "an entirely new situation" which demanded recognition and reassessment.

During the committee's sitting he:

1. Said that should a Canada be commanding North America's integrated air-defence system during an enemy attack—during the absence of the American commander—he does not know from whom the Canadian would hold authority to act.

2. Disclosed that Canada had "urged" that the forthcoming NATO ministerial council meeting in Paris, to be led by heads of member governments, go on despite President Eisenhower's illness. Postponement "might have been used by some countries in the world to show that NATO has to obey U.S. suggestion."

3. Announced the council will consider "co-operation in terms of increasing the deterrent forces against aggression."

Tunisia Arms Weakened NATO Talks

4. Said recent United Kingdom-U.S. arms shipments to Tunisia, irritating France, have weakened inter-NATO consultation during the last three weeks. French resentment had not been eradicated "but the atmosphere will be much improved by the time the heads of government get together."

5. Announced a $366,500 reduction in his department's estimates, mainly in a $1,250,000 allocation by the previous Liberal administration's budget for construction and improvements to Canadian missions abroad.

6. Announced that Canada is shortly to appoint a high commissioner to Malaya.

Mr. Smith said he had read press reports of recent Russian suggestions, including one by Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev, that a summit meeting of the major powers be held.

Canada, however, had not been approached directly, being a middle power.

Nonetheless, "it is not the view of the Canadian government that we should say 'no or nyet' (no in Russian) to a Russian proposal," he said.

There was much that could be done, "while keeping up the payment of our premium on our defence insurance policy of NATO," in the way of co-operation in human and cultural fields. Points of friction could be the subject of patient negotiation.

Questioned by Lester Pearson (L. Algoma East), his predecessor in office, Mr. Smith said all

Mister Smith may hev 'somethin' there. Course we don't want t' adopt a dog-in-th'-sputnik attitude.

No, Maizie, an arms appropriation ain't a big hug.

IN PARLIAMENT

(From Times News Services)

Opposition Blasts No Budget Decision

Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, Monday accused the government of curtailing the rights of Parliament.

He said the Progressive Conservatives should remember that one reason they now form the government is that Canadians were apprehensive that Parliament was being pushed around by the Liberals.

It was true, he said, that the rights of Parliament had not been violated by the Conservatives to the extent that had been carried out by the Liberals in the 1956 pipeline debate.

But it was "not a very long step" to pushing Parliament around in bigger ways if the Conservative government got stronger.

Mr. Knowles, commenting on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement that no budget will be presented at this session of Parliament, won the support of Solon Low, Social Credit leader. Mr. Knowles said the Conservatives vehemently attacked the Liberals in 1947 when the latter had not introduced a budget but had carried out tax changes in other ways. But now the Conservatives were planning to do exactly what the Liberals had done. Mr. Knowles added that Commons standing orders have been changed since 1947 so that tax changes must be presented in the form of a budget which can be debated for a period not exceeding eight days. Now the Conservatives were saying this rule did not apply.

People Entitled to Budget

He said the Canadian people are entitled to a budget, a financial statement. But the government was doing what it had condemned the Liberals for doing.

The Conservatives had made a big issue in the election campaign of the rights of parliament, saying that liberty and democracy were at stake.

Mr. Knowles said former Liberal finance minister Walter Harris had tried to reduce time spent on consideration of government spending estimates to 20 days. The Conservatives had strenuously opposed this. Now they were trying to cut the time to less than 20 days.

The present parliament had the right to discuss fully the government's $5,000,000,000 spending program without the government telling it to hurry along and get estimates out of the way.

Senators Debate Religion

Anglican and Catholic senators Monday night took sharp issue with each other as to whether the federal government or the provinces has jurisdiction over freedom of religion.

Speaking in the Senate throne speech debate, Senator Athur Roebuck (L-Ontario), an Anglican, rejected an argument made last week by Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (L-Quebec), a Catholic, that freedom of religion is a provincial matter under the British North America Act.

Senator Pouliot made the statement in criticizing Supreme Court of Canada decisions affecting the Witnesses of Jehovah religious sect and setting aside the decisions of Quebec courts. The Supreme Court upheld the right of Jehovah's Witnesses to assemble in practice of their profession.

Senator Roebuck said he disagrees with Senator Pouliot that religious freedom is a matter of civil rights, which fall under the control of the provinces. It was never intended by the Fathers of Confederation that religious liberty should be placed under provincial jurisdiction.

Religious liberty was not a local or private matter. It was as nationwide as the right to live under the criminal law. It was "one aspect of peace, order and good government of Canada."

James Sinclair (L-Coast Capilano) Monday night flourished in the House a red-covered book which, he said, contains press clippings of Progressive Conservative election promises.

"This is only volume one, of course," he said, amid roars of laughter from the Liberal benches. Mr. Sinclair added: "We have in preparation a much smaller volume listing the promises which have been effectuated, to use the Prime Minister's term."

The House opened debate on Monday with a discussion of its hours for the remainder of the session. The government plan, which was approved, calls for a 49-hour week with a Christmas adjournment from December 21 to 27.

Before passing this plan, however, the House had to vote down - 121 to 21 - a Social Credit motion for a three-week adjournment at Christmas.

Output Cut By 3 Leading Auto Plants

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's three leading automobile manufacturers began production cutbacks at Ontario plants Monday in the face of lagging demand which they blamed on rumors of a reduction in the federal excise tax on cars.

Chrysler Corporation closed down its Windsor operations and hourly-rated employees will be off until Friday. About 4,000 employees are affected.

At Ford's Oakville plant 1,400 workers were laid off today and Wednesday in Windsor.

The General Motors plant at Oshawa shut down Monday and will be closed today. About 10,000 employees are affected.

Both Chrysler and General Motors blamed rumors of a tax cut and said the public was waiting for a price cut before buying.

Lagging demand for cars throughout the country with a sharp slump noticed with the tax-cut rumors were given as reasons by Ford, which announced its lay-offs last week.

An emergency debate on unemployment in the automobile industry began Monday in the Commons.

Tax Evasion Brings Jail, Fine to MD

VANCOUVER (CP)—A medical doctor was sentenced Monday to six months in jail and fined $10,000 on 12 charges of income tax evasion.

Dr. Gustav Schiller was sentenced in police court by Magistrate Oscar Orr. He pleaded guilty last week to the charges, which involved concealment of $60,258 in gross fees over a 12-year period.

He will also be required to pay $26,000 in back income tax. Dr. Schiller, an internal medicine specialist, was given the jail term for two offences during the years 1943 and 1944.

Magistrate Orr said "I can't overlook that for two years during the war you did this terrible thing." He imposed a $1,000 fine on each of 10 other charges with an alternative of two months in jail.

'Subterfuge' Charge Sparks House Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans "one or two" tax changes this session but a whole day's taunting and questioning by the Commons Opposition failed to bring out whether they include a cut in the 10-per-cent excise tax on new cars.

However, Prime Minister Diefenbaker hinted Monday that income tax may be involved but said the changes will not be presented in a formal budget.

"Insofar as changes in the income taxes are concerned, those changes could be made by notice," he said, quoting precedents under past Liberal governments.

ASK FOR STATEMENT
His announcement sparked protests by opposition parties, which asked the government for a budgetary statement that would give the country a statement on the state of the economy.

Later, on a bid by Paul Martin (Liberal, Essex East), the Commons held an emergency debate on the question of layoffs involving more than 16,000 workers in the automobile industry.

Mr. Martin said the "stagnation" in auto sales, forcing slowdowns in production, was caused by the government not giving an early statement on whether it plans to reduce the excise tax on cars.

Published reports last week said the tax is to be cut by half, but the government has been tight-lipped about its intentions.

To Mr. Martin's request for a statement of policy on the matter, Mr. Diefenbaker said he cannot disclose secret tax plans until it is time to announce them. Mr. Martin, as a former Liberal cabinet minister, knew that.

He said Mr. Martin's motion to adjourn the normal business of the House—private members' resolutions—for a special debate on auto industry layoffs was "a subterfuge" to obtain indirectly information that the Commons could not obtain directly.

Mr. Diefenbaker was asked to withdraw his charge of "subterfuge" but Speaker Roland Michener said the term is not unparliamentary.

"He (Mr. Diefenbaker) is a master of it (subterfuge) himself," interjected James Sinclair (L-Coast Capilano).

Earlier, Mr. Diefenbaker listed a number of other legislative measures the government plans to introduce this session. He did so as the House agreed to sit longer hours, in an effort to speed sessional work.

From now until the end of the session the Commons will sit a

Canadian Laws On Dumping Hit British Trade

GLASGOW (CP)—A Scottish manufacturer and his Canadian representative have accused Canada of applying anti-dumping laws "more bitterly" against Britain than any country on the European continent.

H. E. Semple, Glasgow rope maker, and his Montreal representative, William Bone, told the Canadian trade mission Monday night the company has had great difficulty selling rope in Canada because certain European countries are undercutting prices.

Whenever a British firm tried to sell goods in Canada at a price below that prevailing in the home market, Canada was quick to apply anti-dumping measures to force the price up by adding special duties, Semple said.

But Canada seemed to be lax, he maintained, in applying the same stringent measures against the Continent.

SHOULD PROTEST

H. Leslie Brown, Canadian councillor at London, said if this is the case, the Scottish firms should protest. Anti-dumping laws were applicable to all countries. But they were applied mostly when someone complains.

"And it's because we're too honest in our prices," Semple said. "We do our best," replied Brown, recalling that Canada sent an agent to Czechoslovakia to see if export prices quoted there were correct. Inspectors also could be sent elsewhere.

The exchange took place at a dinner by Glasgow Chamber of Commerce in honor of the mission which drove to the city in a heavy fog from the Edinburgh industrial district.

INGRID REFUSES ANY COMMENT ON RUMOR OF QUICK DIVORCE

LONDON (AP)—Actress Ingrid Bergman today declined to discuss a report she and her estranged husband, Italian film producer Roberto Rossellini, plan a quick divorce.

"There is nothing I can say now," she said in a statement through a spokesman. "When everything is talked out, we will make a statement as we did before, containing all the facts."

At the same time, she refused to deny the report absolutely.

The report said Ercole Graziadei, the lawyer who arranged the couple's legal separation last month, had taken documents for the divorce to London to be signed by Miss Bergman.

Each of these time-saving, work-saving, money-saving or pleasure-giving appliances is operated by an electric motor. It's quite normal to see them, and many others too, in the average home — helping to clean, cook, heat, light, and entertain. And while they add to your comfort and convenience, they also add to the amount of electricity used each month. Records show that the average B.C. Electric residential customer is using nearly three times as much electricity now as in 1946, but paying less per kilowatt hour. When you consider the work these appliances do — and compare it with the cost of using them — it's easy to see that they give you a lot for a little electricity cost.

Advice From Foreigners

HISTORIANS MUST ASSESS, A long time from now, the qualities of President Eisenhower as a statesman. But his qualities as a man are already established beyond doubt and among them is a simple and shining honesty. It is this quality, we may be sure, that will determine his course in the latest crisis of his personal and public life.

Before the last election the President, with his customary candor, said this:

"If at any time I have any reason to believe that I am not fit, I will come before the American people and tell them. There is going to be no neglect of the duties of the President of the United States and when I feel I can't carry them on, I won't be there. . . I am talking about my general, let's say organic fitness for the job as I see it, and that means carrying a burden of hard work right on through the year and through the months. Now, any time I believe that has failed to the point of inability to perform the job properly, then that goes before the American people instantly."

There could be no clearer pledge, on the President's part, to resign if he finds himself unable to perform his duties. His character, and his record are the best guarantee that the pledge is good.

It is therefore not only ill-mannered presumption but unsound international politics for foreigners to tell the President of the United States when and how he should perform his duties.

Some sections of the more sensational British press have undertaken to advise, almost to bully the President with a demand for his immediate resignation. This is simply outrageous and, worse, dangerous since it will only produce resentment among the American people, who surely have the right to settle their own affairs. How would the British people feel if the American press demanded that Queen Elizabeth should abdicate or that Mr. Macmillan should resign?

The question arising out of Mr. Eisenhower's latest illness must be answered entirely by him and the people to whom he is responsible.

But the direction of American foreign policy is an entirely different matter. There the United States' allies have not only a vital interest but the right of advice, criticism or even condemnation; for Mr. Eisenhower is not only President of the United States by law but also the leader of the alliance by acceptance and by the facts of power. In that leadership he is never above criticism and certainly never free from it.

At the moment he is the subject of warm human sympathy in an illness undoubtedly caused by the burden of almost superhuman responsibilities and also the subject of the strongest criticism, at home and abroad. The Western alliance, as it is almost trite to say, is shaken and riven by a crisis of confidence in American leadership.

Concerning this crisis it is necessary to make a sharp distinction. The lack of confidence is not in the President as a man, not in his honesty, good will or objectives but in his policy, and most especially in his chief advisors.

What haunts every friendly foreign office today is the fear that, during Mr. Eisenhower's convalescence, foreign policy will be concentrated more than ever in the hands of Mr. Dulles, in whom the Western world as a whole has little or no confidence at all. If that should be the consequence, even briefly, of the President's illness the damage to the alliance, at a moment of extreme crisis, could be grave indeed.

If foreign friends have no right to settle the President's own future they have the right to expect that in his present period of reassessment he will ask himself whether the confidence of allies can possibly be re-established so long as Mr. Dulles is the chief architect and daily symbol of American foreign policy.

Alive to Drive

IT IS SIGNIFICANT OF THE traffic conditions of today that a total of 20 traffic deaths last weekend was viewed as a promising start for National Safe Driving Week. This toll was seen by the Canadian Press as "a substantial reduction" in the usual weekend fatality list.

Those 20 deaths should be remembered by every car driver, and by pedestrians as well. They are part of the daily traffic attrition throughout the country, so often unnoticed except by those directly concerned, but nevertheless relentlessly, and far too often needlessly, destroying lives.

It is so easy to think of a traffic accident as something that happens to somebody else. Yet very few of those involved in highway fatalities expected their fate. They thought the extra spur of speed was safe, they thought the fellow ahead would not turn, they thought the car on the side road would stop, they thought it would be safe to cross before the light changed.

In many cases those guesses prove right. The rules can be broken, perhaps many times, and you can get away with it. But when the law of averages ultimately asserts itself, it takes only one mistake to cause a death.

Let us — this week and every week — work with the law of averages, rather than against it. There's no future in being a mortality statistic.

Curtain Call for Canada

MR. JOHN BEAUFORT, IN HIS Christian Science Monitor column "On and Off Broadway," says that until five years ago, the Canadian theatre was virtually unknown to anyone save Canadians, "who didn't notice it unduly themselves."

But with the inauguration of the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival in 1953, the Canadian theatre has drawn and keeps drawing thousands of Americans across the border "to soak up the hard and other culture on the banks of Ontario's Avon."

"The winter of Canada's theatrical discontent, if such it was," says Mr. Beaufort, "has been made a most glorious summer."

These are encouraging words for Canadians who are justly proud of the Stratford development. Encouraging, too, is Mr. Beaufort's report that numbers of Canadian actors, singly and in companies, are making friendly forays into the United States and winning wide appreciation.

The pioneering Canadian Players are bus-touring the East and Midwest now with "Othello" and "Man and Superman." Early next year they will take the same plays to the Midwest, south and southwest states. And in the spring Canadian troupes will appear in New York — one of them Montreal's Theatre du Nouveau Monde with three Moliere farces.

This leads Mr. Beaufort to remark that "Canadians who fear lest their country, culture and economy are becoming altogether too influenced by the 'made in U.S.A.' label can take comfort from the fact that the American theatre grows ever more Canada-conscious. In this case, familiarity breeds admiration."

This is gracious comment. It should help Canadians to be a little more conscious of the progress being made in one particular form of art — and a little less self-conscious about their abilities in that field.

Footprints in Men's Fancy

THE HUMAN MIND GENERALLY accepts the possibilities of space travel. It is verging close to acceptance of another scientific marvel—the creation of self-reproducing matter which may suggest a key to the mystery of life.

The once-impossible is now taken as the likely.

But into this new age of credibility comes the chilling element of doubt on such simple subjects as the Abominable Snowman.

From Pennsylvania's Swarthmore College, Dr. Robert K. Enders says he thinks the well publicized prints of the celebrated "snowmen" are made by feet wearing snow sandals, a primitive snowshoe whose marks he has come across in the mountainous areas of Kashmir.

We receive the suggestion sourly. It is too practical. A world faced with so many harsh realities is entitled to a little fanciful speculation on Abominable Snowmen. It is entitled to its Caddy, its Loch Ness monster, its Ogopogo and all the other delightful creatures which offer escape from the sombre run of the news.

The day may come when humanity no longer needs these otherworldly figures. At some time we may eliminate them from our thoughts entirely—but not yet.

Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Hungry Man

DR. BROCK CHISHOLM, the most distinguished international figure who has ever settled in the vicinity of Victoria, a gentleman of apocalyptic social views and a shy private charm, has written a new book—"Prescription for Survival"—designed to shake a world which badly needs shaking. An extract from this forthcoming work, published in Maclean's Magazine, should provide a preliminary shake for Canadians, who perhaps need it more than any other people. At any rate, I find it especially appropriate and well-timed for reasons which will be clear in a moment.

Hutchison

The author observes quietly, to start with—in itself a shaking fact—that the people of North America use about half the total production of irreplaceable natural resources in the world; and since the First World War this continent has used up as much of these resources as the whole human race had used up to that time. (The reader is advised to take a second look at that statement.)

If the human species is to survive—concerning which Dr. Chisholm is extremely doubtful, as any sensible man must—it should begin to consider the remaining resources of the only two unexploited continents, Africa and Antarctica. Who should get them?

To Dr. Chisholm it is obvious that the people of Africa and Asia should get them since they desperately need them and we don't.

"We must abandon," he says, "any idea that our first obligation is to maintain our own standard of living. As long as we believe that our standard of living is more important than the very lives of hundreds of millions of other people, we cannot expect to be regarded with any great degree of admiration or respect."

WELL, one might say, what does that matter? Indeed, that has been our governing attitude all along, an attitude of enlightened self-interest.

But it is no longer enlightened, it is the opposite of self-interest when clearly the great majority of mankind will not for long endure hunger and misery and, in seeking to overcome them, may well produce a world war certain to destroy us all or else they will join the Russians and hand the world over to the communists.

All thoughtful men in the West have recognized these facts but they cannot understand why the poor nations have such a low opinion of the West. To explain that antagonism Dr. Chisholm asks us to put ourselves in the position of some foreigner, say a native of Southeast Asia, for example.

SUCH a man is born and lives in never-ending hunger, not the sort of hunger you feel after a golf game but a perpetual craving for enough food, accompanied inevitably by the diseases of malnutrition.

The hungry man, says Dr. Chisholm (a physician and a psychiatrist) is an impatient man. A Western man is impatient if his dinner is half an hour late. How would he feel if his dinner were always late and then never sufficient?

A man perpetually hungry is not likely to be distinguished by gratitude for any small crumbs of favor from the rich, nor likely to realize that North America has been generous in its foreign gifts. He is more likely to observe that we have never allowed these gifts to hurt us in the least or to reduce our living standard by one-tenth of one per cent, if at all.

MOREOVER, the hungry man will observe that the North American people waste enough every day to keep an equal number of people alive in Asia. The Asiatics could live in luxury, by their standards, on the garbage dumps of this continent. And the hungry man would note also that, having too much food here, we are restricting its production for what we consider sound economic reasons while others starve.

If the hungry man is educated enough to think at all he will suppose that the rich and educated North Americans must realize one very simple fact—that they cannot survive indefinitely if most of the world doesn't, that no part of the human species can survive long at the expense of the majority.

HAVING put himself in the position of an Asiatic, Dr. Chisholm tries to imagine a visitor from another planet arriving here for the first time and seeing the queer political lines that cut this planet up into frozen segments called nations.

These lines, the visitor would find, were laid down long ago by various conquerors, by the strong overcoming the weak, and yet are now regarded as sacred, the dispensation of God, though God knows they are changed often enough whenever someone feels strong enough to change them.

The visitor would be surprised about this and might even conclude that a species which now proposes to destroy itself, if necessary, in defence of impossible arrangements should indeed be destroyed in the interests of common sanity.

If this sounds far-fetched, Dr. Chisholm concludes that some form of world government alone can save us from destruction. But this solution seems unlikely at the moment. Meanwhile the Western peoples are learning rather slowly.

I say that Dr. Chisholm's book is appropriate and timely in a town which, apart from the problems of distant peoples, cannot even fill the pitifully small quota of its own Community Chest while crowding the stores to prepare for a mid-winter feast once associated with an Asiatic religion called Christianity.

As Our Readers See It

State-Run Business

The Canadian National West Indies Steamships Ltd. recent transfer of eight Canadian vessels to Trinidad registry where it could buy cheaper labor power is a splendid example of CCF style "Socialism" in action.

It serves well to show that when a business is operated by the government, it still must reap a surplus on investment, or shut down, just as it would if operated privately. Nationalized industries under a CCF government would have to refuse wage increases too, if they cut into or threatened to eliminate profit. It would just be a substitute of state capitalism for the private variety, and the worker would be exploited as per usual.

As Others See Us

We are constantly being told that Canada is one of the wealthiest countries in the world. Such being the case your readers will be interested in remarks by that serious and influential journal The Economist, in the latest number at hand:

"The Canadian attitude is easily understood. The economic depression of the thirties made a deep mental wound. It is a harsh country in which to lack food and fuel. The Canadians' feeling is: Let's make money quickly while the going is good. Social welfare is a political luxury we cannot afford. Look at the British where it has landed them. This attitude fits in with the pioneer spirit, the strong belief that self-help is the best way. It fits in too with the religious fundamentalists, notably in oil-rich Alberta, who believe that sickness and misfortune are sent by Providence as a punishment—and that the Lord's work must not be interfered with by too much assistance by the state. It fits in too, with the ambitions of the real estate men, the financiers, and the industrial technicians.

"Toronto . . . In spite of the new skyscrapers, the modern elegance of Bloor Street and the shining new underground, has areas like Cabbage Town in the middle of the city, which are squalid, decaying and overcrowded. In such areas live the casual workers, the old men, the physically handicapped and those who cannot save from low wages to meet the unemployment of the Canadian winter. The outskirts of some of the new-company towns are shockingly squalid; houses are often overcrowded, local social aid is strained; the liquor shops thrive and jails are full.

"Canada's rate of infant mortality is nearly twice as high as Sweden's. A hundred thousand births are taking place without a doctor and in the North American tradition there are no midwives. In some provinces the figures for child neglect are formidable. In Quebec there are orphanages for up to three thousand children under one roof: in one institute for infants an epidemic killed half of the children.

"Canada may become a country of bleak contrast between rich and poor, country of great wealth existing within a vast area of poverty—of mind as well as of purse."

Aims and Objects

Several Victoria citizens have exercised their curiosity to try and find out what the Humanist Fellowship of Victoria stands for.

Our group is a member of the American Humanist Association, whose headquarters are located at Yellow Springs, Ohio.

Among others giving prestige to its intellectual membership are such names as the late Albert Einstein, Bertrand

Russell, and Canada's Dr. Brock Chisholm.

In Victoria the Humanist's purposes are:

1. To provide Humanists and other Rationalists with a meeting place for social and educational purposes.
2. To protect the political and civil rights of Humanists and other Free-thinkers.
3. To uphold the principles of free speech, especially in respect to the unbelief in any supreme being or revealed religion.
4. To support the Secularists in their stand for:

- (a) The complete separation of Church and State.
- (b) The exclusion of all religious teaching in the public schools.
- (c) The taxation of the income, profit and property of religious organizations, and of their ecclesiastics, on the same basis as those of other organizations and their employees.

Aside from the above objectives the Fellowship is not primarily an action group, and it is not associated with any political party or any social or economic program. However, the Fellowship believes that only through a full and free discussion of life's problems, based on reason and the findings of science, can it attain its ultimate objective—the welfare and happiness, not only of its members—but of all mankind.

W. A. SCOTT, President,
Humanist Fellowship of Victoria.

Safe Shellfish

I would like to point out that the continued publicity being given in all the newspapers concerning the ban which was placed on shellfish in a comparatively small productive area north of Nanaimo is causing much unnecessary damage to the business and the livelihood of oyster-growers whose oyster beds are in areas declared safe.

Instead of running headlines "Oyster Ban Still in Effect" and then in small print stating where, we would suggest that you have headlines stating that oysters on sale now come only from areas tested and found safe by the Public Health Department.

We feel that the press owes this to the shellfish industry which has suffered so much damage from the thoughtless way this news has been written up, and this when unemployment is bad enough.

You are destroying our Christmas trade.

Compliments of the Season

All of the Old Aged Pensioners' Organization, Branch 5, wish to thank all those who made the year a success. We are particularly grateful to Mrs. Munroe (who attends each meeting), St. John's Ambulance, Women of the Moose (Chapter 25), Kinsmen Club, Kiwanis, Langham Court Theatre, theatre managers, the press and radio.

Jumbled Comics

Would it be possible for you to deliver The Victoria Times backwards so that your confused readers may be permitted to read the comic strips in their proper sequence?

The recent presentation of Alley Oop has been simply chaotic. We get the end of the story before the middle and sometimes jump back to the beginning without any warning.

Is this a result of the time machine in the story going haywire—or is it just sheer carelessness in your printing shop?

A Dictator and the Press

A Canadian Press Dispatch From Havana, Cuba

A SMALL army of censors rides hard day and night on Cuba's newspapers, radio and TV stations.

They are ready to pounce instantly upon and destroy any news item they consider likely to "inflame the populace or tend to create public disorder" or that they consider highly critical of the government of president Fulgencio Batista.

There's a censor, or censors, in every radio-TV station and in the offices of newspapers and other publications throughout the country.

They also censor foreign correspondents and international cable companies. Censorship often has been applied in the 55 years of this island's independence from Spain, but the control seems tighter than ever under the existing suspension of constitutional guarantees, ordered Oct. 30 for another 45 days. It was the sixth suspension this year.

The censors have broad, arbitrary powers and there is no appeal from their decisions.

Proofsheets of the full pages of every newspaper have to be submitted to a censor for approval. That includes everything from society news to national and international political developments.

Ideas Shielded

All international news is carefully scanned because publication here about revolts or the lack of liberties in other countries might be construed as putting rebellious ideas into the minds of Cubans.

In other words, nothing that tells the real story of what's going on in Cuba can be passed on to the people through their newspapers, by radio or by TV. For most of that would fall within the category of being "inflammatory."

None of these news channels ever mentions the name of rebel leader Fidel Castro. He has been waging a guerrilla war for a year against Batista's government from the Sierra Maestra Mountains in eastern-most Oriente Province.

The Cuban people hear about it only through clandestine revolutionary pamphlets and bulletins, by passing the word from mouth-to-mouth, or by reading closely the newspapers that arrive from New York or Miami.

News about bombings and widespread sabotage in key Cuban towns and communication centres never appears in any Cuban newspaper, nor does it come over radio or TV station. But the news gets around fast over an island grapevine.

The censorship of anything identifying Castro as a rebel leader, or any likeness of him, extends to advertising. Censorship stopped the publication in Cuba of advertisements of an internationally-known watch because a bearded soldier depicted using it in the Arctic looked too much like Castro.

No radio or television station, or newspaper, is required to hold out time or space each day for any official announcement the government might want circulated. But censors scan every item intended for use on radio or television as closely, or even more closely, than that which goes into print.

Government Control

The government allows newspaper publishers virtually no latitude in deciding what prominence should be given any official handout. Each usually is prefaced by "suggested" headlines accounting portions that the government thinks should be impressed upon the reader.

Nothing written by foreign correspondents can be transmitted by a cable company until it has been approved by a censor.

Thus far, censors have not attempted to interfere with international telephone communications or sending news from Cuba, by the mails or a plane courier.

Denied the possibility of finding the "real news" about Cuba in their own newspapers, more and more Cubans daily snatch up newspapers coming in from Miami or New York.

Even these, for a long time, were scrutinized by censors and news items clipped out before they could be put on sale in Cuba. Censors, for some reason, however, dropped that tiring job many weeks ago.

Both the Inter-American Press Association and Cuban newspaper publishers have appealed to President Batista to lift censorship. He answered that censorship is necessary to "assure the maintenance of peace and order in the republic."

Batista added that he would lift censorship as soon as it appears to be in the interests of the Cuban people and their government.

Boo From the Gallery

YEARS ago, when I was a juvenile (with no serious record of delinquencies against me, Dei gratia) I joined a student group to hear a distinguished speaker.

The gentleman who honored us that day had an international reputation. He spoke on a subject of immense importance, but which escapes my memory.

Unfortunately, during the course of his speech, he used a phrase which, in itself, was completely innocent, but which, through local connotations, had a specific and mildly indelicate significance for us. The phrase set us snickering, like the bunch of juveniles we were.

When the distinguished speaker had finished his address an adult in the gathering very properly stood up and told us what she thought of our manners. When she had finished we felt small enough to walk under the door without opening it.

RESCUED

Then the guest of honor came to our rescue. He had, he said, lectured to classes in college and he had found among his students a fair amount of light-mindedness. A young person, he argued, could be a decent individual and still snicker at the wrong time if something touched his sense of humor.

The incident came to mind when I read the story about Boy Scouts booing and hissing Dr. Mortimer Adler because the doctor told the youngsters they would have to do more homework to become the scientists the United States needed.

Booing and hissing is a pretty wretched response to the doctor's appeal. But I also remember that at the time we snickered at the distinguished international speaker, we also followed a wretched routine in English classes, too.

At that time we had a professor who prescribed certain reading for us at the close of each lecture. Had we covered all the ground suggested, we'd have had little time for other studies and no time at all for being collegiate, as we understood the term at that time.

So we developed a sort of Greek chorus.

YOUR HEALTH

Detecting Allergies

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Any number of people ask, "What do you do for allergy?" Usually, the first thing to do is to try to find out what allergen is causing the trouble. For instance, I myself, for most of my life suffered greatly from indigestion, and all of this disappeared the day I found, by keeping a diary of the unusual foods eaten just before I had a stomach upset, that the trouble was due to chicken, and particularly chicken soup or chicken gravy. In the last 20 years, since I have learned to leave chicken alone, I have been a very healthy man.

Also, all my life I used to suffer terribly from canker sores in my mouth. For five days at a time I would suffer much pain from the little white ulcers. When I kept a record of the unusual foods I had eaten just before I got an attack, I found that every time I had eaten chocolate. Since leaving chocolate alone, I have been free from canker sores.

Ever since I was a boy, I have had brief spells of sneezing—a sort of hay fever. Because these attacks came at any time of year, in any part of the world, and in any house, it was pretty obvious that they were not due to pollen or to anything limited to my house. By watching closely, I soon found that I had these spells whenever I picked up some papers that had been lying around where they could gather dust. Also, I found that I got a spell when I took down an old book from the shelves. Evidently, I am sensitive to book-dust, and to the dust that gather on papers that have been left out on my untidy desk at home. Many a time when I have taught a patient how to do the necessary detective work, he has quickly found what was upsetting his nose or lungs or digestive tract. To illustrate: I remember a woman who came to see me about attacks of asthma. I soon learned that they had started when she had moved into a new house. I found that she could avoid the asthma by sleeping in her mother's house, but not in her sister's house. She got spells in her lake cottage but not in her sister's lake cottage. She was free from wheezing in a hotel room.

I asked her husband, who was a builder, to study these houses to see what was common

When the lecturer named the first bit of prescribed reading, one group would groan. When another item was added to the reading list, a second batch of students would moan. And so it went to the end of the period. With all the moaning it must have sounded like milk time in a dairy, though precious little milk there was, intellectually speaking.

Young people act that way, with no apparent appreciation for their responsibilities. And yet, generation after generation, they grow out of it. How and why, I guess I'll never know.

Occasionally these days something is said to suggest we're living in a world and an age when there just isn't going to be time to grow out of irresponsibility. Maybe there won't be. But careless kids can grow up quickly when they have to. They did that during the war years. And, to a degree, they do it now at college.

PLAYTIME'S OVER

Only how do you go about convincing enough of them that playtime is over when playtime actually is over? As the educationists put it now, youngsters should start at a very early age to follow the courses they need to become the kind of people the country is calling for.

That means, among other things, that a lot of them will have to take to heart the remarks of Dr. Adler. They'll have to study harder and longer, no matter how conventional it may be to bop homework.

But what's the inducement? A kid of today can understand rewards in terms of material things, flashy cars, good clothes, smart homes. He can understand satisfaction in terms of popularity.

Where, though, in a world which puts a premium on time and labor saving devices—which points out the futility of doing something the hard way when there's an easy way to do it—is the youngster going to get the constitution which enables him to persist doggedly with the five-finger exercises of learning? How do you drive into him recognition of the fact that he needs skill practice and lots of it?

Somewhere along the line a youngster has to be given a sense of values which recognizes the necessity of work. Where do they sell that sense of values? Or where have they ever sold it? How do you wrap it up to look attractive?

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

to the ones in which she had trouble, and soon he reported that he thought it was a pressed board. When he took some scrapings from this board, and scattered the dust in my consulting room, the woman began to wheeze and the proof was complete. I once published a booklet on how to go at this type of detective work.

PROBLEMS OF THE GIFTED CHILD

Many parents and teachers are puzzled by the problems that arise with the handling of the gifted and highly intelligent child. Often he is somewhat of a problem at school because he gets bored with the slow progress of some of his classmates. Often his parents have difficulties because they don't understand him, or don't know how to control him. I was just reading a fine book which all parents who are wondering how to bring up a child with a very high intelligence quotient could find helpful. It is called "Teaching the Bright and Gifted: How to Prevent the Waste of One of the Nation's Greatest Resources," by Norma E. Cutts and Nicholas Moseley (Prentice-Hall).

As the authors say, the bright child is quick to see how he can take advantage of the parent whose discipline is inconsistent. He is quick to play one parent against the other, and he may even play his parents at home against his teachers at school. He may enjoy testing his wit and his will against the forces of his environment. Luckily, most of these children are quick to respect firm and consistent discipline. When they find that misbehavior always brings a quick penalty they soon decide that good behavior is the part of wisdom. If they have a good teacher who knows how to handle them with a firm hand, they can be as good as gold. But if at home the parents have abdicated, and believe that it is wrong to teach any self-control or politeness or decency, they are likely to have a bad time of it.

This book is filled with good answers to all the questions that parents of gifted children are likely to ask. Should the child be allowed to go ahead rapidly? When the teacher says, "He's wonderfully bright and he learns almost instantly, but he's lazy and won't do much," what do you do?

It certainly is tremendously important to the nation that these gifted children be taught well and helped to go through college. The nation so needs them and the gifts that many of them can bring to civilization are very great.

Sacrifices Halt Reds, UBC Head Warns

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the University of British Columbia warned Monday that the West must make sacrifices to resist Communist domination.

"If we are to survive and avoid slavery we must agree upon objectives and directions and discipline ourselves to make the necessary sacrifices to achieve these," Dr. Norman MacKenzie told the Men's Canadian Club.

He said Canadians tend to fritter away their time on non-essentials, "whereas our competitors have ruthlessly and continuously concentrated on the job at hand—the building of strength and the acquisition of power."

He said he loves athletics and has "no complaint about the Grey Cup events except that they should be kept in proper perspective."

"If the best student at UBC could receive plaudits like Miss Carol Lucas (UBC student named Miss Grey Cup) — and we're all proud of her—then I would be happier."

Newsman Under Spotlight

LONDON (Reuters)—A judicial inquiry investigating alleged leakages of secret government financial information today turned the spotlight on a number of London newspaper writers and the nature of the sources they use.

The inquiry, which opened Monday, is gathering information on reports that various speculators were tipped off in advance of the government's intention last September to increase the bank rate to seven per cent from five per cent.

These speculators unloaded fixed-interest government bonds rapidly and thereby escaped loss when the market for them tumbled with the announcement of the new discount rate.

By buying back cheaply, some of them are thought to have made large profits.

The investigation into the alleged leak has taken on heavy political undertones. The Labor party has attacked strongly for the last two months, hinting a political scandal, despite repeated disclaimers from the government.

Today's session of the inquiry, set up with full powers to take evidence, went over reports appearing in the British press suggesting that a leak had occurred.

Frederick Ellis, financial editor of The Daily Express, wrote at the time that an unnamed insurance company had been a big advance seller.

Today he testified he had asked a leading stockbroker, John Elkington, what he had heard about the leakage. Ellis said Elkington pointed his thumb over his shoulder at an insurance company office.

"That was the Royal Exchange Assurance office," Ellis said.

Saanich Shop Hours Extended for Yule

Saanich Council didn't like it but it "broke the law" Monday by passing a resolution permitting storekeepers in the municipality to stay open until 9 p.m. from December 16 to 24, excluding Sunday.

54 Charges of Fraud

TORONTO (CP)—John Stark, 30, who pleaded guilty to 54 charges of fraud, false pretences and forgery, Monday was sentenced to two years in prison. Police testified he cashed worthless cheques in Toronto, Ottawa and Vancouver for a total of more than $2,500.

Oak Bay Refuses To Back Labor's Plea to Ottawa

Oak Bay council Monday took an adamant stand against interfering with senior governments on a request by the Victoria Labor Council that it "help provide leadership and monies" in preventing unemployment.

VLC officials Al Toone and Ed Haw said city council had already endorsed the resolution, copies of which had been sent to the prime minister and the premier.

Reeve Fred Norris promised to do "everything we can" at the municipal level through public works, but opposed backing VLC action in approaching other governments.

He told the two delegates their council had "all the weight necessary" to make its own approach, "and we are glad you have done it."

He said the senior governments should be cognizant of the unemployment picture without Oak Bay "needing."

He and Coun. Fred Robinson questioned whether labor was doing much on its own behalf to ease unemployment.

The councillor said there was little evidence workers like to receive a sensible wage offer "and get back to work" from current strikes.

At the time the resolution was formulated, there were only two smaller strikes in B.C., Mr. Haw said.

Council will study the brief further in committee, which has already planned its winter public works program.

Deer Dies Hard

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP)—Bailey Disharoon was bending over a deer he had shot Monday when it gave a dying kick and knocked out his teeth.

Amalgamation Vote Refused

Saanich Council Decides on Royal Commission; Oak Bay Denies Jaycees

Oak Bay and Saanich councils Monday turned down a Junior Chamber of Commerce demand for Dec. 12 referendums on investigating amalgamation but Saanich, in a surprising 5-1 vote, decided to support establishment of a royal commission to study the problem.

The Jaycees' request generated heated arguments during both council meetings, with about 50 spectators breaking out in applause when Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash tore into his council for its "amazing sudden about face" after blocking his previous attempts to launch a study of amalgamation.

Oak Bay residents would vote solidly against amalgamation, Reeve Fred Norris told Eric Charman, head of the Jaycees amalgamation committee, who said the people wanted the subject studied so it could be settled once and for all.

HEARD IN SILENCE

But in Saanich, Mr. Charman's statements did not draw a single comment from the council.

Coun. George Chatterton followed up previously announced intentions by moving that council support establishment of a royal commission "not only to study amalgamation but also other alternatives such as metropolitan government or integration of some services as a solution to our problems."

He said he "definitely" was not proposing a referendum because it was council's responsibility to seek studies of municipal problems. The people should vote only on proposals arising from investigations.

SAANICH PAYS CENTENNIAL SHARE NOW

Saanich council decided, Monday, to "go ball" for its centennial committee members by paying the municipality's share of the Beaver-Elk Lake project immediately.

Council agreed to a second request from the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee for payment of $23,014 because, as Coun. Leslie Passmore put it, committee members were paying for gas and oil used by construction machines out of their own pockets.

Earlier, council had asked the committee if the money was urgently needed now. Spreading out of payments over next year was desired by council.

Councillors Joseph Casey, Leslie Passmore, George Austin and Eugene Diespecker all voiced strong opposition to amalgamation but only reeve-ship candidate Diespecker voted against the motion.

"I think it's an amazing about face after my attempts for months to have this matter investigated without a single supporter from council," Reeve Ash said.

"I have been accused of trying to sell one end of Saanich up north and the other down south but the very people who accuse me of trying to dismember Saanich are the ones creating all the disunity by refusing to allow investigation."

PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW

"Who are we to say to the people that they have no right to know the facts? In the days to come this municipality will have to spend a great deal of money and if there is any chance of making economies, we should study them."

"Not one council in Greater Victoria has investigated the matter. No matter what anyone says, we have never sat down together, individually or collectively, to study the question."

The reeve's remarks drew a loud round of clapping from the spectators, most of them members of the Jaycees and the Dec. 12th group.

Earlier, Coun. Casey had said that he didn't know "whether amalgamation is good for Saanich, but I know it's bad for it."

However, he agreed that the onus was on council to decide the question of an investigation.

Coun. Passmore said amalgamation would increase Saanich taxes by 70 per cent because "its main purpose is to reduce Victoria's taxes."

Saying he was unalterably opposed to amalgamation, he supported the motion "because I believe that when the ratepayers get all the facts they will turn amalgamation 'down flat-footed'."

Coun. Diespecker said in 1954 the Victoria mill rate was 23 as compared with 8.8 in Saanich, but the Chamber of Commerce study of amalgamation showed the mill rate would average 17 after a merger.

"That would be an increase of 50 per cent in taxes for Saanich ratepayers," he said.

In addition, if Oak Bay and Esquimalt refused to join in the enquiry, Saanich would have to pay half the cost of the royal commission.

"I cannot see that the ratepayers would derive any benefit from amalgamation," he said in opposing a study.

Palatial U.S. Bus on View

A bus equipped with "washroom," snack bar and rear observation lounge was on view outside Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot Monday.

It also has a stewardess—pretty Laska Carroll of Eugene, Oregon—who offers passengers the kind of service they get on airlines.

Miss Carroll operates a radio and tape recorder aboard the bus and plays the kind of music she thinks her passengers want most.

The bus is one of the Golden Eagle fleet operated by Continental Trailways in the United States and you have to go to Seattle to travel on it.

It is being exhibited this week at Duncan, Nanaimo, Vancouver and New Westminster.

H-Bombs on U.S. Planes Over Canada? No One Says

By GEORGE KITCHEN
WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States Air Force just isn't saying today — or any other day — whether its bombers take H-bombs along with them when they fly over Canada.

But the chances are that they have aboard on such missions a full complement of nuclear weapons, including H-bombs.

Disturbed by the stir created in Europe over reports that U.S. aircraft fly aloft daily with H-bombs aboard, the air force has become more cautious than ever about divulging information on the movements — and the payload — of its big bombers.

It will concede that B-52 jet bombers and other aircraft of the Strategic Air Command, the big force it maintains on a world-wide basis, do fly frequently over Canada, but makes a big point of the fact the Canadian government always knows about such flights.

As for H-bombs and other nuclear weapons, the air force spokesmen now produce as a stock answer the one Gen. Thomas Power, chief of the air command, gave at a Paris press conference two weeks ago. He implied that the U.S. has its planes loaded with nuclear weapons when he said they were "not carrying swords or bows and arrows."

It was that statement by Power which touched off the outcry now being heard in London and continental European cities over the possibility that nuclear-armed U.S. planes are aloft over populated areas.

The Strategic Air Command has three bases within easy reach of the Canadian border — at Limestone, Me., on the New Brunswick border; at Rapid City, S.D., about 300 miles south of Saskatchewan, and at Spokane, Wash., just below British Columbia.

Bombers from these bases, including B-36s, B-47s and B-52s, fly with some frequency over Canada, an air force spokesman said, but a flight plan always is filed with Ottawa ahead of time "and the Canadian government knows about the flight."

But a SAC bomber flying over Canada, he added, may as easily have come from a SAC base in Texas or Florida as from one of the border bases.

The planes fly on a world-wide basis and their flights take them all over the globe.

"A B-52, for example, might take off from Texas or Florida," he said, "and fly a direct line toward Moscow over Canada and then veer off when it reached the North Pole and circle back across Canada."

PRINCESS' DEGREE HITS DISCORD NOTE

LONDON (UP) — Princess Margaret came under editorial fire today for accepting an honorary degree of doctor of music.

The University of London will present it to the Princess Wednesday. Daily Mirror columnist John Rolls asked why.

"Conferring these honors on royalty is becoming too much of a habit," said Rolls.

Canadian Boy of 15 Retains Wheat Crown

CALGARY (CP) — Jerry J. Leiske, a 15-year-old giant among wheat growers, was named international wheat king Monday for the third straight year. Jerry won his first wheat crown when he was 13.

He brought the title to Canada again at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago with an entry of the Chinook variety of hard red spring wheat.

"I'm very happy at winning," Jerry told reporters at his 1,700-acre farm near Beiseker, about 35 miles northeast of here.

"It's really a thrill to win three years in a row," he laughed.

Jerry said he used Chinook wheat from his 1956 prize-winning plot as seed and threshed the crop by hand. The grain was carefully sorted, sieved and polished before the final sample was handpicked.

The triple win entitles him to keep the trophy, which generally changes hands each year.

A grade 9 student, Jerry began entering wheat competitions at 13. John Leiske, his father, was a teacher with 43 years of practical experience and put his son on the winning path.

Jerry took first prize at the Beiseker fair for the last three years, was runner-up at Drumheller this year and placed fourth in the Toronto Exposition.

While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night

While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The Angels of the Lord came down,
And glory shone around.

"Fear not," said he, for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled mind;
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind."

"To you, in David's town, this day
Is born of David's line;
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign."

"The heavenly Babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapped in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."

Thus spake the seraph; and forthwith
Of angels, praising God, who thus Addressed their joyful song:
"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace;
Godwill henceforth, from heaven to men
Begin and never cease."

It Came Upon The Midnight Clear

It came upon the midnight clear,<
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth,
To touch their harps of gold:
"Peace on the earth, good will to men,
From heaven's all gracious King,
The world in solemn silence lay,
While stars and angels sang:
"Hail the heaven-born Prince of Peace,
Hail the Sun of Righteousness,
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings,
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth."

Yet with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Behold the angel-strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And men, at war with men, hear not
The words of peace they bring;
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.
Add ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the arduous way
With painful steps and slow:
Look now, for glad and joyous hours
God's messengers will bring,
O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing.
For lo! The days are hastening on,
By prophet-bards foretold,
When with the ever circling years
Came round the age of gold;
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendours fling,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing.

Angels From The Realms of Glory

Angels from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth;
Ye who sang creation's story,
Now proclaim Messiah's birth;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Shepherds in the field abiding,
Watching o'er your flocks by night,
God with man is now residing,
Yonder shines the infant light;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Sages, leave your contemplations,
Brighter visions beam afar;
Seek the great desire of nations,
Ye have seen His natal star;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

Saints before the altar bending,
Watching long in hope and fear,
Suddenly the Lord descending,
In His temple shall appear;
Come and worship,
Worship Christ, the newborn King.

O Come, All Ye Faithful

O come all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
Come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem;
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of Angels;

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

True God of true God,
Light of light eternal,
Lo, He abhors not the Virgin's womb.

Son of the Father,
Begotten, not created,
Sing choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing, all ye citizens of heaven above,

Sing, ye, all glory
To God in the highest!
Yea, Lord we hail Thee,
Born this happy morning;
Jesus to Thee be glory given,
Word of the Father,
Now in flesh appearing.

Hark, The Herald Angels Sing

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King,
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled."
Joyful, all ye nations rise,
Join the triumph of the skies;
With angelic hosts proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."

Hark! The herald angels sing,
"Glory to the newborn King,
Christ, by highest heaven adored,
Christ, the everlasting Lord,
Late in time behold Him come,
Late in time behold Him come,
Veiled in flesh the Godhead see;
Hail the incarnate Deity,
Pleased as man with man to dwell,
Jesus, our Emmanuel."

Hail the heaven-born Prince of Peace,
Hail the Sun of Righteousness,
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings,
Mild He lays His glory by,
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth,
Born to give them second birth.

CHRISTMAS SONGS and CAROLS

Victoria Daily Times

Silent Night

Silent night! Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright;
Round yon virgin mother and child,
Holy Infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night! Holy night!
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glories stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia,
Christ, the Saviour is born!
Christ, the Saviour is born!

Silent night! Holy night!
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord at Thy birth.

The First Nowel

The first Nowel the angels did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay:
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep,
On a cold winter's night, that was so deep.

Nowel, Nowel, Nowel, Nowel,
Born is the King of Israel.
They looked up and saw a star
Shining in the East beyond them far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

And by the light of that same star
Three wise men came from country far;
To seek for a King was their intent,
And to follow the star wherever it went.

This star drew nigh to the northwest,
O'er Bethlehem it took its rest,
And there it did both stop and stay,
Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Then entered in those wise men three,
Full reverently upon their knee,
And offered there in his presence
Their gold and myrrh and frankincense.

Then let us all with one accord
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord;
That hath made heaven and earth of nought,
And with His blood mankind hath bought.

Away In A Manger

Away in a manger, no crib for a bed,
The little Lord Jesus laid down his sweet head;
The stars in the bright sky looked down
where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus, asleep on the hay.

The cattle are lowing, the Baby awakes,
But little Lord Jesus no crying He makes;
I love Thee, Lord Jesus; look down from the sky,
And stay by my side until morning is nigh.

Be near me, Lord Jesus, I ask Thee to stay
Close by me forever and love me, I pray;
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care,
And fit us for heaven to live with Thee
there.

O Little Town Of Bethlehem

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie,
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep,
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting light,
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary:
And, gather'd all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wandering love,
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth
And praises sing of God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given,
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven;
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where we poor souls will receive him still,
The dear Christ enters in.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in;
Be born in us today.
We bear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord, Emmanuel.

Christians, Awake!

Christians, awake, salute the happy morn,
Whereon the Saviour of the world was born,
Rise to adore the mystery of love,
Which hosts of angels chanted from above:
With them the joyful tidings first began,
Of God incarnate and the Virgin's Son.

Then to the watchful shepherds it,
Who were told the angelic herald's voice,
"Behold, I bring you good tidings of a Saviour's birth,
To you and all the nations upon the earth!"
"This day hath God fulfilled His promise,"
"This day hath God fulfilled His word."

To Bethlehem straight the enlightened shepherds ran,
To see the wonders God had wrought for man,
Their flocks, their flocks, still praising God,
"And then, glad hearts with holy rapture,
To all the joyful tidings they proclaim—
The first apostles of the Saviour's name."

Oh, may we keep and ponder in our mind
God's wondrous love in saving lost mankind,
Trace we the Babe, who has retrieved our loss,
From the poor manger to the bitter cross:
Tread in His steps, assisted by His grace,
Till many's first heavenly state again takes place.

Then may we hope the angelic hosts among,
To join, redeemed, a glad, triumphant throng:
He that was born upon this joyful day
Around us all His glory shall display.
Saved by His love, incessant we shall sing
External praise to heaven's almighty King.

Brightest And Best
Brightest and best of the sons of the morn,Star of the East, horizon adorning,
Guide where our infant Redeemer is laid.
Cold on His cradle the dewdrops are shining,
Low lies His head with the beasts of the stall;
Angels adore Him in slumber reclining—
Maker and Monarch and Saviour of all!

Say, shall we yield Him, in costly devotion,
Odors of Eden and offerings divine?
Gems of the mountains and pearls of the deep,
Myrrh from the forest and gold from the mine?
Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gifts would his favor secure
Richer by far is the heart's adoration:
Dearest to God are the prayers of the poor.

Brightest and best of the sons of the morn,
Dawn on our darkness and lend us Thine aid!
Star of the East, the horizon adorning,

What Child Is This?

What child is this, who, laid to rest,
On Mary's lap is sleeping?
Whom angels greet with anthems sweet
While shepherds watch are keeping.

This, this is Christ the King,
Whom shepherds guard and sing,
Haste, haste to bring him in,
The Babe, the son of Mary.

Why lies he in such mean estate,
Where ox and ass are feeding?
Good Christian, fear for sinners here,
The silent word is pleading.

So bring him incense, gold and myrrh,
Come peasant, king and own him,
The King of Kings salvation brings,
Let loving hearts enthron him.

We three kings of Orient are,
 Bearing gifts we traverse afar,
 Field and fountain, moor and mountain,
 Following yonder star.

O star of wonder, star of night,
Star with royal beauty bright,
Westward leading, still proceeding,
 Guide us to the perfect light.

Born a King of Bethlehem's plain,
Gold I bring to crown Him again,
King forever, ceasing never,
 Over us all to reign.

Frankincense to offer have I,
Prayer and Praise, all men raising,
Worship Him, God most high,
 Unto the Lord be all praise.

Myrrh is mine; its bitter perfume
Breathes a life of gathering gloom;
Sorrowing, sighing, bleeding, dying,
 Sealed in the stone-cold tomb.

Infant Holy

Infant holy, infant lowly,
For His bed, a cattle stall;
Oxen lowing, little knowing
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.
Swift are ringing, tidings bringing,
Novels of the Babe is Lord of all.

Flocks were sleeping, shepherds keeping
Vigil till the morning new
Saw the glory, heard the story,
Tidings of a gospel true.
Thus rejoicing, free from sorrow,
Praises voicing, greet the morn,
Christ the Babe is Lord of all.

God rest you merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay;
Remember Christ your Saviour
Was born upon this day,
To save us all from Satan's power
When we were gone astray.

O tidings of comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy,
In Bethlehem, in Jewry,
This blessed Babe was born,
And laid within a manger
Upon this blessed morn;
The which His mother Mary
Did nothing take in scorn.

From God our Heavenly Father,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same:
How that in Bethlehem was born
The Son of God by name.

"Fear not then," said the angel,
"Let nothing you affright;
This day is born a Saviour
Of a pure Virgin bright,
To free all those who trust in Him,
From Satan's power and might."

The shepherds, at those tidings,
Rejoiced much in mind,
And left their flocks a-feeding
In tempest, storm and wind:
And went to Bethlehem straightway
The Son of God to find.

At a when they came to Bethlehem,
Where our dear Saviour lay,
They found Him in a manger,
Where oxen feed on hay:
His mother, Mary, kneeling down,
Unto the Lord did pray.

Now to the Lord sing praises,
All you within this place,
And with true love and brotherhood
Each other now embrace:
This holy tide of Christmas
All other doth efface.

White Christmas

I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know
Where the tree tops glisten
And children listen to hear sleigh bells in the snow.
I'm dreaming of a white Christmas
With every Christmas card I write
"May your days be merry and bright
And may all your Christmases be white."

Dashing thro' the snow,
In a one-horse open sleigh,
O'er the fields we go,
Laughing all the way;
Bells on bobtail ring,
Making spirits bright;
What fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight!

Chorus:
Jingle bells, jingle bells,
Jingle all the way!
Oh, what fun it is to ride,
In a one-horse open sleigh!
A day or two ago,
I thought I'd take a ride;
And soon Miss Fannie Bright was seated
By my side;
The horse was lean and lank,
Misfortune seem'd his lot,
He got into a drifted bank and then we Got upst!

Now the ground is white,
Go it while you're young;
Take the girls tonight
And sing this sleighing song:
Just get a bobtail'd nag,
Two-forty for his speed,
Then hitch him to an open sleigh and crack! you'll take the lead!

Good King Wenceslas
Good King Wenceslas looked out
On the Feast of Stephen.
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even;
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Tho' the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Cath'ring winter fuel.

"Hither, page and stand by me,
If you know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good league hence,
Underneath the mountain;
Right against the forest fence,
By St. Agnes' fountain."

"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me pine logs hither:
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear him thither."
Page and monarch forth they went,
Through the rude wind's wild lament,
And the bitter weather.

"Sir, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Falls my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page;
Tread thou in them boldly:
Thou shalt find the winter's rage
Freeze thy blood less coldly."

A Visit From St. Nicholas

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter
When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.
With a little old driver so lively and quick
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name.
"Now Dasher! Now Dancer! Now Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On Cupid! On Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall,
Now dash away, dash away, dash away all!"
And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
His eyes how they twinkled! His dimples how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry.
He was chubby and plump—a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself.
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying a finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight:
"Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good-night!"

Saanich Building Leading District

November building permit figures showed Saanich ahead of other municipalities by lengths while Esquimalt was almost left at the starting gate in the building race.

Saanich issued 95 permits

Group Would See Special Council Arena Committee

A special committee of city council has asked for a meeting with Victoria Memorial Arena Commission Friday to discuss complaints registered by Ald. Hugh Ramsay against manager Joseph Dukowski.

Announcement of the meeting was made after a one-hour closed-door meeting Monday. Ald. Ramsay met with the committee headed by Ald. Austin Curtis.

The matter was turned over to the committee after Ald. Ramsay expressed a lack of confidence in the manager at a council meeting last week. He accused the manager of misrepresenting facts in a report to council on operation of the floor freezing system.

valued at $987,540 last month compared with 48 permits worth $190,410 a year ago. This brings the 1957 11-month total to 925 permits worth $7,035,240. Corresponding period last year saw 972 permits issued with a total value of $4,990,185.

However, some of the increase was due to changes in methods of evaluating permits this year.

ESQUIMALT DOWN

Esquimalt permits plummeted to 10 for a value of $45,200 compared with 27 permits worth $218,931 in November, 1956. Total value of permits issued this year, $844,308, represents a drop of more than 50 per cent from the $1,817,606 figure for the first 11 months of 1956.

Victoria issued 622 permits worth $371,047 last month compared with 634 permits worth $312,419 a year ago but 11-month figures of 6,696 permits worth $6,535,123 lag behind 1956's 6,903 and $7,749,810 totals.

Oak Bay almost doubled the $76,359 value of 26 permits issued in November, 1956, when it gave out 24 permits last month worth $147,400. Totals for the first 11 months showed little change—388 permits valued at $2,653,969 this year and 386 permits worth $2,517,242 last year.

OFFICIALS STILL FAZED BY GROCER'S FREE MILK

B.C. Milk Board still doesn't know what it can do about Colwood Corners grocer Ernest B. Kay's efforts to spill the Milk Act.

Mr. Kay began his second week of giving away free milk today with no intention of halting. He had given away some 500 quarts by Monday.

He made the move last Tuesday as a protest against the "unfair" Milk Act under which the board stopped him from selling milk at 20 cents a quart to customers ordering $10 of groceries or more.

"I'll give it away," he said then. "The act doesn't say anything about that."

Milk Board chairman E. C. Carr referred the matter to solicitors for legal advice. He was still waiting for it Monday.

Covered Riding 'Ring' Planned

Construction of a covered riding "ring" on property of the Victoria Riding and Hunt Club, Cedar Hill Cross Road, will start within 10 days and will be ready for use early next year.

Cost of the ring will be about $6,000, financed by hunt club shares, said chairman of the building committee, Mrs. W. H. Dunbar. The ring will be elliptical, around an open centre measuring 60' by 100 yards. It will have a 16-foot-wide cover over the riding area.

The new structure will enable club members to ride in comfort the year round.

It will be connected by a covered way to the stables. "We hope the ring will encourage all our junior riders to continue their tuition throughout the year," Mrs. Dunbar said. The ring plans were based on drawings by architect Roderick Clack.

BILL FOLK WILL SIT OUT GAME AGAINST COUGARS

Bill Folk will be at his usual defence post for Vancouver Canucks in their Western Hockey League game against Seattle at Vancouver tonight, but he won't be on the ice the next time Canucks invade Victoria.

League president Al Leader announced Monday that Folk has drawn a one-game suspension for his stick-swinging attack on Cougar coach Pat Egan in the second period of last Saturday's game at Memorial Arena and will serve his sentence when the Cats host Canucks Dec. 14.

Folk, who received a match penalty Saturday, will also pay an automatic $50 fine.

Week's Chores Wilt Warriors

Weary 'Peggys Lose to Edmonton In Sixth Game in Eight Nights

By The Canadian Press

Six games in eight nights caught up with the Western Hockey League Winnipeg Warriors in the third period Monday.

Edmonton Flyers and the Warriors were square at three goals apiece until the third. Then Gordie Hannigan, Gerry Melnyk and Bill McNeill connected and made the final score 6-3 for the visiting Flyers.

McNeill, who had scored twice earlier, turned the hat trick while Len Lundie notched the other goal for Edmonton. George Ford, Earl Ingarfield and Gordie Redahl answered for Winnipeg.

The Flyers win moved them within three points of the leading Warriors in the Prairie Division. There was no other action Monday.

Tonight Seattle plays in Vancouver and Calgary hosts Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals.

QUICK START

Ford and Ingarfield gave the tiring Warriors a 2-0 first-period lead in Monday's game. Lundie and then McNeill scored for the Flyers but Redahl put the Warriors one up with their last goal of the game. McNeill tied the count again, setting the stage for Flyers' prolific finale.

Four major penalties and one misconduct were included in 10 penalties handed out. The closest to a major outbreak came near the end of the game as Kent Douglas piled into Tony Leswick. Quick action by Riggin, who got a misconduct for his troubles, helped Leswick escape a thrashing.

Edmonton outshot Warriors 30-21.

A win for the Americans in Vancouver tonight would give them second place in the Coast Division. Should Calgary knock over the Regals it will move into third place, eight points back of Edmonton.

Ratings Fail to Blow Hurricane From Scene

NEW YORK (UP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson was still listed as a heavyweight contender in the latest Ring Magazine ratings despite the widespread campaign to retire him.

Eccentric Tommy of St. Albans, N.Y., was dropped from fifth to 10th among contenders because of his TKO by top-rated Eddie Machen of San Francisco. Anyone below 10th place is not a "contender."

Ring editor Nat Fleischer explained that although retirement "definitely would be for his best interests," the fact that Jackson lasted into the 10th rounds with both Machen and champion Floyd Patterson entitled him to "be kept in the choice 10 for at least another month."

Jackson's drop enabled Pat McMurry of Tacoma, Wash., to rise a notch to fifth, followed by similar one-point climbs for Cuban Nino Valdes; big Mike DeJohn of Syracuse, N.Y.;

Val Druce upset Western Canada champion May Wong at Club Sirocco Monday night to move into the final round of the women's singles final in the annual Victoria Table Tennis Association championships.

Mrs. Druce will match strokes with defending champion Nancy Craig for the title tonight.

Ray Greenwood, who caused a mild surprise when he ousted Gordon Chan in Monday night's semi, will meet Ray Dawson for the men's singles title tonight.

R. Gough shared two crowns during Monday's play, pairing with D. Beckwith to win the juveniles doubles final against V. McPhail and F. Neave and combining with B. Hobbs to down R. Kelsall and B. Beckwith in the junior doubles final.

McPhail defeated Neave in the novice singles final.

LEMON RECUPERATES

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—A surgeon said Monday that Cleveland pitcher Bob Lemon is "doing very well" following an operation seven days ago for removal of a spur and bone chips from his right elbow. Arm trouble benched the 37-year-old right-hander most of the 1957 season.

Wayne Bethea, New York, and Alex Miteff of Argentina. Middleweight Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., won the "fighter of the month" designation and kept his number three rating by knocking out Bobby Boyd in the second round. Willie Vaughn of Los Angeles entered the ratings at number 10 because of Friday's victory over Ralph (Tiger) Jones. Neal Rivers of Los Angeles also moved into the rankings at number nine because of his close, though losing, fight with ex-champ Gene Fullmer, number two.

The biggest upheaval occurred in the featherweight division, where Ike Chestnut of New York was dropped from second to fifth because of his kayo by Ricardo Moreno of Mexico. Moreno entered the group at eighth. Miguel Berrios of Puerto Rico, who had been third, was eliminated from the ratings by his temporary retirement because of an eye operation.

Grey Cup Game Over, But Writers Battle On

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Grey Cup scoreboard read "Winnipeg 7, Hamilton 32" and sports writers East and West are about that far apart on the relative merits of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Western writers pointed to the statistics, where the Bombers beat Hamilton in almost every department, and struck out at the western playoff system that sent the Bombers into the Grey Cup final riddled with injuries.

On the other hand, the eastern scribes maintained that the "Tiger-Cats" performance exploded once and for all the "myth" of western football supremacy.

"If they played tomorrow, I have no doubt that the Blue Bombers would beat the Tiger-Cats," wrote Jack Matheson in the Winnipeg Tribune. "But on Saturday, Tiger-Cats were a better football team than the Blue Bombers. Let's face it..."

"Tiger-Cats played 16 games to get into the Grey Cup and were so healthy it was downright criminal. The Blue Bombers were playing their 22nd game. The west has always sent a patched-up club and always will as long as there's a two-game semifinal and a best-of-three final. With a healthy club, Winnipeg would win a lot more games than they'd lose against Hamilton. Maybe it's sour grapes, but that's what I think."

The east had a different view, as reported by Bob Frewin in the Toronto Telegram.

"It took Hamilton only 10 minutes to deprive the west and Winnipeg of the Grey Cup. In the remaining 50 minutes the ferocious, muscular Cats spent their time battering to meaningless smithereens the malarkey that the tough guys in the west play smarter, better football while the east has only disorganized sissies."

Annis (Vancouver Sun) Stukas had this to say: "I underestimated how much football in the east has improved this year. They'll have to start working again out west. We'll have to start worrying about beating the east as well as figuring ways."

"The Tabbies finally exploded the childish myth of Western invincibility," wrote Jack (Ottawa Citizen) Kinsella. "What's more, it is likely to remain exploded for a long time."

Quite a while, too... I wouldn't hesitate to say that the Ottawa Rough Riders could have handled Winnipeg, and that even Argonauts would have made it close.

Montreal, loser to Edmonton the last three years would have dropped dead again."

Scotty (Regina Leader-Post) Melville said that "each year when the big game rolls around more often than not the Western champions go into the fray with more spirit than health" because of the Western playoff system.

"Winnipeg injuries caused Winnipeg mistakes and it was a combination of the two rather than greatness by the other side that took the championship East..."

And so it goes...

Ted (Toronto Telegram) Reeve said that Tigers are the strongest and best balanced team the East has had in some years... These Tabbies could take a monopoly for a few autumns."

Hal (Edmonton Journal) Pawson wrote that "Hamilton didn't so much win the Grey Cup as Winnipeg lost it. The Bombers were washed out and listless in contrast to the alert series they got off against Edmonton in the Western playoffs..."

Philadelphians (AP)—The Southwest Conference produced the top two choices in the National Football League's partial draft session Monday as Chicago Cardinals selected King Hill, standout Rice quarterback; and big John Crow, power-running fullback of Texas A. and M.

Hill, rugged 210-pound all-around athlete who led the Rice Owls to the Southwest Conference title and a New Year's Day Cotton Bowl date with Navy, was the bonus choice of Cardinals' coach Ray Richards.

In the regular draft, the Cardinals, first because of their last place standing, selected Crow, the "bread and butter" back of the Texas Aggies.

Commissioner Bert Bell presided over his third annual early draft session designed to give NFL teams an opportunity to compete on equal footing with early-drafting Canadian clubs for American football talent.

MONTREAL (CP)—Gene Letourneau of Quebec City Sunday was re-elected to his 12th consecutive one-year term as national commissioner of the Canadian Boxing Federation.

Merv McKenzie of Toronto was elected president of the federation which held its annual meeting here this weekend.

DURELLE SECOND-RANKED LIGHT-HEAVY CHALLENGER
MILWAUKEE (CP)—The National Boxing Association has named Yvon Durelle of Canada as second-ranking challenger for the world light-heavyweight boxing championship held by Archie Moore.

Durelle, 27, of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., is now ranked next to Harold Johnson of Pennsylvania and ahead of New York's Tony Anthony.

After completing the draft, the team owners unanimously granted all the demands of the players' association—exhibition pay, minimum salary, injury protection clause and recognition.

Unanimous approval was given recommendations Bell had made to the owners on Oct. 16 and Nov. 4 that they write into the constitution and by-laws the various requests of the players.

These recommendations provide a minimum annual salary of $5,000, $50 per game exhibition pay, protection for the players in event of injury in line of duty and recognition of the association as the formal representative of the players.

Agreement Ignites Minor Ball Changes

Spokane, Phoenix, Salt Lake City To Join PCL Fold

By HAL WOOD

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—The Pacific Coast League has unanimously voted to take Salt Lake City, Spokane, Wash., and Phoenix, Ariz., into the loop for the 1958 campaign and at the same time agreed on terms for indemnities from the invading major league clubs.

Climaxing six hours of discussions, league president Leslie O'Connor released this statement:

"The Pacific Coast League has voted to operate eight clubs in 1958 and has accepted a settlement on indemnities by the Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants for invasion of the PCL territory."

TRANSFER AGREED

"We have agreed, among other things, on the transfer of the San Francisco Seals' franchise by the Giants to Phoenix, and the Los Angeles Angels' franchise by the Dodgers to Spokane."

"There is a proviso that park improvements must meet PCL standards and satisfactory leases assured."

"Also, the Salt Lake City franchise will be acceptable to the PCL for transfer and operation of the Hollywood franchise, provided satisfactory financial arrangements can be made and other PCL standards met."

"All arrangements should be completed and assurances given by Dec. 15 or 16."

ONE MILLION?

O'Connor refused to be drawn into discussions on just how much indemnity would be received from the Giants and Dodgers. But it generally is believed that the total will run in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Some sources said $900,000.

He wouldn't say whether the sum would be based on attendance paid or on an outright outlay of cash. The total sum is reported in some quarters to come out at about $150,000 per team for the five franchises, to be paid over a three-year period.

The PCL, in turn, will be forced to pay indemnity to both the class C Pioneer League (for the Salt Lake City franchise) and to the class C Arizona-Mexico League (for the Phoenix franchise).

"I understand that an agreement has been reached with both leagues on the amount of the indemnity," said O'Connor.

REACTION STARTS

"Thus the deadlock that has existed since the Giants and Dodgers announced their moves west was broken and the string of chain reaction is expected to get under way now."

Official announcing of the drafting of the territories will come soon.

Before the meeting broke up, Nick Morgan, representing Salt Lake City interests interested in luring a PCL franchise, had offered a flat $150,000 to the PCL to bring a franchise there. This is mostly expected to pay for the Hollywood franchise, although the same may be held out for purchase of the Salt Lake City franchise by the PCL.

Asked if he and the league was satisfied with the indemnities from the majors, O'Connor replied:

"No one ever is satisfied with a compromise settlement. But it was the best we could do on both sides."

Archers Plan Team Scramble

A team competition, as well as the race for individual honors, will feature the Canadian Archery Association's winter indoor mail matches this year.

Four highest scores from each club for the eight-week long matches will determine the team championship. At least 30 clubs are expected to take part in the event, scheduled to start Jan. 6.

Last week's scores by Victoria Bowmen follow:

Men—Frank Jones 510, Bill Carney 480, Hilj Hogg 478, Bob Copeman 472, Brian Padden 444, Jim Stewart 420, Harold Turner 412, Fred Austin 372, Fred Usher 270.

Ladies—Ross Copeman 412, Doris Usher 370, Beverly Hogg 364, Ivy Turner 360, Jennifer Andy Cleland 400, Bob Walls 300, Brian Usher 210.

Cougar Boosters Ready for Jaunt

Members of the Victoria Cougars Booster Club made definite plans for their first road trip of the Western Hockey League season during a meeting at Memorial Arena Monday night.

The club, which will hold its next meeting Dec. 17, plans to accompany the Cougars to New Westminster Jan. 18.

ALIBI NOT NEEDED NOW; JAMES HAS X-RAY PROOF

MONTREAL (CP)—Winnipeg halfback Gerry James did not realize his right hand was broken in Saturday's Grey Cup contest against Hamilton Tiger-Cats until after the game, coach Bud Grant of the Blue Bombers said today.

Grant, here to coach the West in next Saturday's Shrine Bowl game, said X-rays taken later disclosed James had two broken bones on the back of the hand.

James made four fumbles as the Ti-Cats crushed the Bombers 32-7 in Toronto. He is left-handed.

"Gerry came off in the first quarter and everyone on the bench saw his hand was swollen, but he wasn't complaining," Grant said. "We knew that he had hurt it, but we could only suspect it was that bad."

SELWOOD SCORES WINNER

Rugby Cup Back At Oak Bay High

The Howard Russell Cup is back at Oak Bay High School today and Bill Selwood is the hero of the school's athletic fraternity.

It was Selwood's electrifying 30-yard dash in the dying minutes of the opening half at Victoria High Monday afternoon that gave the Oaks a 6-3 triumph over the defending champion Vic High squad in the second game of the best-of-three series for the city high school rugby crown.

Victory gave Oak Bay, which won the first game of the series, 6-0, last Friday, the series in straight games and gave the Bay outright possession of the coveted trophy for the first time since the 1954-55 season.

Two years ago the two schools shared the trophy and last season, the Vics came out on top after a hectic series.

Oak Bay coach Don Oliver is attempting to schedule the B.C. final against Vancouver's Lord Byng High School in Victoria this Saturday.

Cheered by dozens of enthusiastic students, the Bays grabbed the lead in the early stages as Richard Sparks booted a 25-yard penalty goal. But Vic High squared the count five minutes later when Fred Latham followed up quickly on Eric Robinson's punt and fell on the ball behind the Oak Bay line for a try, which went unconverted.

Oak Bay, holding a slight edge through the efforts of its hard-working forwards in the first half, had the Vics pushed back in their own territory just before the intermission.

The Vic High backs appeared off on a promising run from their own 25-yard line when Selwood burst through for a surprising interception and streaked over the line, the try which provided the winning margin.

Vic High pressed several times during the second half but couldn't break through for the tying points. Bill Gover had two chances to even the count on penalty goals, but missed on a 25 and 40-yard attempts.

Canucks Triumph

Two goals by Don Bule sparked Canucks to a 4-2 victory over Royals in a Victoria Minor Hockey Association mid-level league game played at Memorial Arena Monday.

Barry Pearce and John Horne also scored for Canucks while Darnis Yardley collected both Royal tallies.

Two pee-wee league all-star teams will clash at Memorial Arena at 7:50 p.m. on Wednesday in a preliminary game to the Victoria-New Westminster Western Hockey League contest.

Revitalized Glaciers Heat Suburban Chase

The streaking Courtenay Glaciers tightened the Suburban Hockey League race as they chalked up their third straight victory at Nanaimo Sunday.

Glaciers knocked Nanaimo-Ladysmith out of first place with a 4-3 triumph over the Combines to move within one point of the third-place Port Alberni Flyers. Lake Cowichan Canucks vaulted past Combines into the top spot with 7-2 romp over the slumping Flyers.

Fast Shuffle With Buttons

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Button, button... who's got the button? Golf's version of the children's game is certainly undergoing a fast shuffle these days. Two of the three pairs of buttons put into play for the benefit of Victoria golfers last week are in the hands of new holders today.

An Uplands club pairing, C. J. Robertson and Capt. Kempston were the only shot-makers to turn in a successful defence last week when they retained the senior buttons with a 3-and-1 victory over clubmates A. Priestly and Jack Betts.

Both junior and open buttons, however, fell into new hands.

Another Uplands twosome, Gord Pellow and Al Reside inherited the open buttons Sunday by defeating Gorge Vale's John Carlow and Fred Painter, two up.

Playing the Gorge hills, Carlow and Painter, who were making their first defence of the decorations, enjoyed a one-up advantage with only three holes to go. But the Uplands pair squared accounts on the 18th with a par three, and Pellow then won the 17th with a birdie three. Pellow insured victory on the final hole with a par-matching four.

Until the 18th, there was never more than a one-hole difference as both teams played close to par. The winners came in with a best-ball score of 68, four under par.

Pellow and Reside will now defend their laurels against Colwood's Jim Robertson and Vince Clarkson on Dec. 15 at Uplands.

Canadian junior champion Bill Wakeham teamed up with Gorge's Mike Kolb to capture the junior buttons from the Dalziel brothers, Dale and Noel, 5 and 4. Wakeham and Kolb now must face another Gorge pairing, Jim McCall and Roy Chappell.

SHORT CHIPS: While the button matches took the spotlight at Gorge Vale, turkey battles featured the main events at the city's three other courses.

Stanley Haynes, who turned in a card eight up on par, and E. C. Duff-Wilson, 5 up, won turkeys at Victoria club. R. F. Hagel topped 30 entries at Colwood with a net 67 for a bird, while at Uplands, Bob Morrison, John Palmerson and R. Blay were winners. Morrison won gross honors with a 75 while Palmerson captured the net prize with 66, one stroke better than Blay. City champion Laurie Kerr, of Colwood, will carry a five-stroke lead to Uplands next Sunday when the third and final round of the present monthly medal rounds is staged. Gorge's Ron Cuth is runner-up with a 36-hole count of 149.

Gorge's John Merriman turned in another fine round Sunday, a three-under-par 69. Colwood members staged their annual prize-giving night Friday. A feature of the evening was presentation of the club's three major awards. Frank Skillings and Ernie Bayliss took home the Dr. Bryant Trophy, while Stan Evans was presented the handicap championship award. Bill McCall keeps the club championship trophy at home for a third successive season. Films of the Canadian Open were shown. The Seagram movie is available to any club or organization. The man to phone is Stan Britt (5-8240). Art Thom-

Hard-Luck Habs Lose Top Scorer

OTTAWA (CP)—Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens, the National Hockey League's leading individual scorer, has joined his older brother Maurice on the injury shelf.

Henri suffered a knee hemorrhage Monday night in an exhibition game against Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens, the NHL club's farm team, played to officially open the new $500,000 hockey arena in neighboring Hull, Que. Canadiens won 6-1.

The injury is believed to have occurred when Henri tangled along the boards with teammate Bob Turner, one of four Canadiens players loaned to the Baby Habs for the exhibition.

X-RAYED IN HOSPITAL

Following X-ray examinations, Dr. J. S. Makhani of Ottawa General Hospital, where Henri was taken after the game, diagnosed the injury as hemorrhage—in the left knee.

He said he was unable to predict how long the injury would keep the Pocket Rocket out of hockey. Dr. Makhani said the new injury seemed to have no connection with a previous injury to the same knee.

The second event was won by the rink skipped by Beulah Gilday with a 13-9 win over Helen Dobell's rink from Vancouver.

Ina Chappell of Lake Cowichan defeated the Doris Fraser rink of Victoria 10-9 in an extra end victory in the third event.

Henri's brother, Maurice, suffered a severe cut to his right achilles tendon from the skate of Toronto defenceman Marc Reaume in a Nov. 13 NHL game at Toronto and is not expected back in action until the middle of this month.

Grout clipped 7-10ths of a second from the former record established two years ago by Peter Rutherford, another McGill student.

HRH DUKE OF WINDSOR

... back in Britain

Public Talk By Windsor Stirs Rumor

LONDON (UP)—The Duke of Windsor came to Britain today for his first public engagement here in 21 years. There were new rumors of a reconciliation with Queen Elizabeth II.

Ostensibly, the ex-king was here to attend the memorial service for the old friend who was best man at his wedding to Wallis Simpson.

But Wednesday night he will make his first public speech in Britain for 21 years at an army dinner in London.

The fact that he had accepted the invitation to speak prompted fresh speculation that a reconciliation with his family might be near.

The Duke has not fulfilled a public engagement in Britain since he abdicated as King Edward VIII except to attend his brother's funeral.

PRIVATE VISITS

Royal family opposition to his marriage has always been assumed the reason the Duke stayed away from Britain for so long.

His visits here have been strictly private since his abdication, though he always called on his late brother, King George VI, while he was alive. He is expected to see the Queen on this visit.

Queen Elizabeth, always his favorite niece, was believed anxious to heal the rift with her uncle. It was not known, however, whether this would include acceptance of his divorced wife at court. This would cut across the strict lines of royal protocol.

The Duchess of Windsor has never been received by members of the Royal Family.

The London Daily Herald said today the Duke's speech Thursday "is the big question mark."

"Everyone will be listening with very special interest," it said, "the Duke is keeping his plans to himself."

Laying Charges Rent Increases Hit Pensioners

VANCOUVER (CP)—Liberal Leader Arthur Laing Monday called on Premier Bennett to set up a commission to investigate rent increases recently imposed on old age pensioners and low-income groups.

He also suggested some rent controls be reinstituted if necessary.

In a wire to the premier, Mr. Laing said there is a serious housing situation in Vancouver and other B.C. centres and "evidence that hardship is being visited on unprotected people."

He said some old age pensioners have had their rents increased by an amount equal to additional allowances recently approved by the federal government, and some workers were spending half their income in rent.

"I know of aged and limited income persons who are now confronted with increased rents of as much as $30 a month," he said.

Mr. Laing called for a single commissioner—preferably a lawyer with real estate experience—and closed hearings to protect tenants.

Rent controls were lifted in 1954.

ORLEANSVILLE, Algeria (Reuters)—A fairly strong earth tremor lasting five or six seconds caused some damage but no casualties Monday in Orleansville and Tenes.

Orleansville was wrecked by an earthquake three years ago but has since been rebuilt.

PLANE ROUTE SWITCHED TO TAKE PEARSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Scandinavian Airlines is diverting a DC-7-C airliner from New York to Ottawa's Uplands Airport Saturday night to pick up Lester B. Pearson and fly him to Oslo, where he is to accept the Nobel Peace Prize Dec. 10.

The airline's planes now land in Canada only for refuelling. Special permission had to be obtained from the Canadian government for Saturday's passenger pickup here, believed the airline's first in Canada.

On Monday night was given a testimonial dinner by fellow parliamentarians.

Commons Speaker Roland Meachner presented to the former Liberal external affairs minister a green-covered book containing the signatures of MPs of all parties.

Rail Talks to Conciliation

MONTREAL (CP)—A federal conciliation board is to be appointed to try to settle a wage dispute between Canadian railways and 15 unions representing 130,000 non-operating rail employees.

Request for a conciliation board was made Monday by the union's negotiating committee in a telegram to Labor Minister Starr in Ottawa.

Frank Hall of Montreal, chairman of the union committee, said talks with railway representatives were "completely sterile." The negotiations opened last Wednesday.

In a statement, the railways said they made a "strong plea" to have the union demands withdrawn and the present contract extended until December, 1958. The request was made "in the light of drastically declining railway traffic and revenues and of general economic conditions."

The unions seek wage increases of 35 cents an hour, establishment of severance pay, improved paid vacations, an eighth statutory holiday and increased company contributions to a health-welfare plan.

Value of the various demands has been estimated by the two main railways involved—the CPR and CNR—at an extra $128,000,000 a year. They say the union proposals are the equivalent of a 47-cent increase in hourly wages.

Average wage for non-operating workers—those not concerned specifically with running trains—is $1.63 an hour.

The statement said the railways' proposal to extend the present contract, due to expire Dec. 31, would make a "much-needed contribution to economic stability and, over the long term, advance the interests of the community as a whole."

OUT OF JAIL WEDNESDAY, NOW BACK FOR NEW TERM

John Brenton of Duncan, who was released from the B.C. Penitentiary last week after 23 months imprisonment, today was sent back to jail.

He was sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court to six months in Oakalla Prison for taking a car without the owner's consent.

Brenton asked the court to be lenient in view of his long imprisonment on a breaking, entering and theft charge.

"I just got out of penitentiary Wednesday and I would like to put myself at the mercy of the court," he said.

The magistrate replied that he could not overlook Brenton's criminal record.

Dr. Desmond Kidd, burlly B.C. scout commissioner never misses an opportunity of emphasizing the international spirit of scouting.

He tells this story of a Jewish Canadian scout leader attending the World Jamboree in England. It was Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, and the scouter wanted to attend the local synagogue.

Seeking a companion, he strolled round to the Israeli scout camp and found a party of boys sitting outside.

"Aren't you fellows going to the synagogue?" he asked. "Oh no," they replied, "we are the Arab members of the Israeli group."

Spryest veteran at the Point Ellice Bridge opening Saturday was 95-year-old Herbert Kent, Victoria's grand old man of music.

Defying a cold wind, eagle-eyed Mr. Kent sat bareheaded through the ceremonies, joined lustily in the singing of "O Canada" and spotted dozens of people he has known over the years.

Although I had met him only once before, he singled me out of the crowd and said: "I noticed a slight mistake in your article on..."

But we won't go into that.

I hear that Eric Charman, one of Victoria's best-known bachelors, is planning a spring trip to the altar with pretty, fair-haired Dianne Abernethy of Victoria.

Eric is still better known as the live-wire president of Victoria Progressive Conservative Association, though he works for Ald. J. Donald Smith, Social Credit M.L.A. for Victoria.

W. J. Hughes, who came to

Victoria from Shropshire, England, nearly 50 years ago, showed me a copy of The Shropshire Chronicle containing a picture of Vancouver on its editorial page.

The picture is fine but the caption, also, refers to Vancouver as "the glorious capital city of British Columbia."

En route: A stiff letter from Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Shaw believes downtown merchants will subscribe at least $3,000 this year to the cost of enlivening city streets with festive colored lights and holly baskets.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Theft of a 24-inch chain saw worth $179.40 some time since 3 p.m. Friday was reported to city police Monday by Mc and Mc department store, 1400 Government.

A special variety show will take place at the Christmas party of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on Wednesday in the Bay Street Armory at 8 p.m.

Shipping men say many ships which would ordinarily "top off" with paper or pulp are now taking complete cargoes of lumber, increasing their working time in lumber ports. Cowichan Bay and Chemainus, in addition to Victoria, have been exceptionally busy over the past month.

Post office officials today appealed to residents to use "green" and "yellow" labels to speed up the handling of Christmas mails this month.

The green labels are for out-of-town mail and the yellow for local letters.

The labels, as well as a list of Christmas mailing dates and instructions on proper addressing, packaging and posting of Christmas cards, letters and parcels, are being delivered to homes by postmen this week.

Noble Cecil Holt was elected president of the Victoria Gizeh Temple on Monday night at the Knight's of Pythias Hall.

Also elected were Noble Charles Savage, vice-president; Noble Jack Walton, secretary; Noble Ken Davies, treasurer; directors for two-year terms, Nobles Al Bagattini, Jack Halton, Frank Briers, and directors for one-year terms Nobles Harry Parks, George Greenwood and Bill Taaffe.

Commissioning ceremonies for the new minesweeper HMCS Cowichan will be held at the builder's yard, Yarrows Ltd., at 3 p.m., Dec. 12.

On commissioning, the Cowichan will be attached to the Pacific Command, based at Esquimalt.

Community Chest today inched towards a goal of $30,000 in a "Finish the Job" drive that ends Thursday.

Collections have increased to $211,000 — $26,000 away from the minimum amount to keep 20 member agencies operating in 1958.

Donations may be sent to Community Chest headquarters, Spencerhouse, or left at chest collection points at the Hudson's Bay Company, T. Eaton Co. Ltd. or Woodwards.

Vancouver Island lumber ports are working at capacity, due in part to the pulp and paper strike.

All available berths at Ogden Point are occupied today by lumber carriers, and an "overflow" ship is loading at the Victoria Machinery Depot outer wharf.

Black Ball ferry service between Nanaimo and Vancouver will be temporarily curtailed effective Saturday with the trips from both ports at 6 a.m. and the midnight sailings cut out.

The move is to effect annual repairs to the Chinook and Kahloke.

Thus the first sailing in the day from each end will be at 8 a.m. and the last at 10 p.m.

A lecture on "Traffic Safety" will be given to the YMCA So-Ed members by Cpl. E. W. Dunk, RCMP, tonight at 8 in the Mural Room of the YMCA.

$1 Million Plan for New Schools Ready to Start Early Next Year

Greater Victoria School Board will launch another $1,000,000 phase of the current school building program early in the new year, it was learned today.

Top of the program are three new elementary schools—Lake Hill, Hampton and Uplands.

Following those projects will be the new Esquimalt High School, for the Colville Road, Lampson Street area.

Board officials announced tenders will be called for the three new six-room elementary schools in January or February. Each will also contain an activity room. Estimated cost of each is $148,000.

Plans are nearly ready for the Lake Hill School which will be located near Morris Drive and Lucas.

Working drawings are being prepared for the Hampton School, which will be erected on Regina, near Burnside.

'IT'S LIKE WALKING'

"Supporting cast" at Times' reporter Kerr's skating debut was Peggy Cunningham, left, 11, of 4575 Viewmont, and

Sandra Kattler, 11, of 2908 Shakespear, "Fall girl" in background is skating pro Fay Morris.

Secret for Skating Success? ...A Good Supporting Cast!

By DINAH KERR

They say Barbara Ann Scott has hung up her skates.

Well, bleish my hair and call me "Babs." Chip the ice off the choreography for "Alice in Wonderland" because I am ready.

I have completed a dazzling debut before the toddlers of Victoria Figure Skating Club. It was my first time on skates and they laughed when I stood up to play.

I will admit here and now that it was not a solo performance. I had a supporting cast of two—one on either side.

KEEP THEM

I owe a lot to those youngsters and until I master a turn I will keep them in the act.

It was they who persuaded me to take the wooden guards off my skates before I stepped onto the ice at Memorial Arena. "We'll hold your elbows," they said.

Then we began. We glided like three swans—I was the 8-foot tall one in the middle—across the rink.

AWESTRUCK

Crowds of children gathered from all corners to form an awe-struck semi-circle.

"If you moved your feet, the girls wouldn't have to pull so hard," whispered skating pro Fay Morris.

I moved my feet and it was then I knew that Barbara hadn't retired a moment too soon.

I had been sweating icicles for nothing. Skating was a cinch!

You just walk fast, and I've been walking in figure eights and circles for years. It's just a matter of time before I step it up a bit, and put my act on ice.

PEP TALK

My debut over, I was given a pep talk on the figure skating club by ice committee member Doug Doidge.

The club, he said, will be staging a "Centennial Revue" at the Arena Jan. 18. All members—700 of them, aged three to 79—will be taking part.

Elders to don an historical costume will be Matt Fagan who used to match skates with hockey's "Silver Fox" Lester Patrick at Victoria's first arena when both were boys.

Doug didn't ask me to join the revue and I didn't like to tell him I wouldn't charge a dime.

He did say, however, that members are rehearsing now

—at sessions Sunday, from 10 to 11 a.m., Friday and Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 11 a.m., Monday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

He said membership fee was $12 for juniors, $15 for intermediates and $20 for seniors. "A lot of parents give their children membership certificates for Christmas," he said.

It's a good idea, of course, but $20 is a lot to ask from my folks...

LITTLE BAIT

Doug seemed to realize this and he tossed in a little bait. "A number of our members are training for the Pacific Coast championships at Nanaimo in January," he said.

"And last year two girls graduated into 'Ice Capades'."

What's more, the club has three skating pros to supervise practice sessions—Fay Morris, who is also directing the "Centennial Revue," Mary Rose Thacker and Jane Patterson.

"It's a wonderful club, one of the largest in Canada," Doug said. "But we'd like to enroll even more members if we could."

"I'm thinking it over."

Budget Up At Oak Bay

Provisional Oak Bay budget of $1,495,050 for 1958 is an increase of $72,499 over last year's total expenditure, council heard Monday.

Main increases are school board, $30,000; fire protection, which includes a new fire truck, $24,000; debt charges covering the new municipal hall and local improvements $28,770, and the Royal Jubilee Hospital, $11,000.

The Municipal Act states that until an annual budget is adopted, no expenditure can be made that is not provided for in the provisional budget, except with approval of the inspectors concerned.

To offset the provisional increase, centenary grants of more than $23,000 have been deleted.

CHALLENGES

"The two greatest challenges now facing the power commission," Mr. Briggs said, "relate to the one hand to the need for adequate provisions for long-term, low-cost power, and, on the other hand, to the persistent increases in the cost of capital equipment, money, wages and supplies."

During the year, the commission's supply of power was augmented by the addition of the 70,000-horsepower Ladore Falls station on Vancouver Island, a 16,500-horsepower addition to the Wharfedale hydro-electric plant on the Arrow Lakes, and capacity increases in seven diesel stations.

The commission now has 104 generating units in operation, compared to 89 a year ago.

Saanich Boy Still Lost

A 16-year-old Saanich boy who "went for a walk" before Sunday breakfast still has not returned home.

Police said David Michael Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Jones, 3364 Doncaster, likely will show up on his own accord.

Apparently he took with him his passport—he came to Victoria from Cardiff, Wales, in July—and $10, indicating he intended to leave home, possibly to look for a job, his parents think.

Although he was a good student, David's school principal said he had some difficulty adjusting to the Canadian system.

David wore grey trousers, tan windbreaker with a silk "Lo-carno" badge, tan raincoat and black shoes. He is five feet two inches in height, slight, blond and blue-eyed.

Clothing Store Fire

There was a hot time at John McMaster Clothing, 1012 Fort, Monday at 11.55 p.m.

Firemen reported an electric clock developed a short circuit and began to smoulder, causing $5 damage.

Smoking clock was spotted by a police patrolman.

Civil Servants Want Pay Boost

Strikers Block Construction Work on Mills

Enlarged Picket Lines Thrown Up

An emergency meeting between Labor Minister Lyle Wicks and Donald Bushell, secretary of the Vancouver Island Trades Council was to be sought this afternoon. Mr. Bushell said at press time he was instructed to urge the minister to bring the two sides of the dispute together in an effort to end the strike.

Picket lines of striking pulp workers stopped construction crews this morning working at mills undergoing expansion.

The move caught everyone by surprise.

"We weren't expecting it and I don't think the construction unions were either," said James Petrie, manager of the Macmillan and Bloedel mill at Port Alberni where 250 construction workers were turned back at the gates by enlarged picket lines at 8 a.m.

NO WARNING GIVEN

"I understand this is going on at every mill where construction is in progress," he said. "Neither construction nor pulp workers unions have contacted us about it."

There are 650 construction workers at the Elk Falls and Port Alice pulp mills on Vancouver Island.

The action was taken as B.C.'s first province-wide strike in the industry neared its fourth week.

No notice was given the Vancouver Island Trades Council by the pulp workers although it was awaiting a meeting on the pulp workers' announced intention to picket construction work at the Harman plant as a new phase of the expansion program there was scheduled.

Previously, Jim Moffat, president of the VITC, said the pulp workers had agreed—not to interfere with construction at the strike-bound plants.

Bonner Appoints Former Partner To Police Board

Appointment of Brigadier D. M. Clark to the Vancouver police commission was announced today by Attorney-General Bonner.

He succeeds Brigadier William Murphy, Q.C., who is retiring Jan. 31.

Brigadier Clark, 42, is a former commanding officer of the Seaforth Highlanders' Battalion.

He is a partner in the Vancouver law firm of Clark, Wilson, White, Clark and Maguire.

Mr. Bonner was a member of this firm until his election on the Social Credit ticket in 1952.

Brief to B.C. Cabinet Asks 10 Per Cent April 1

An average 10-per-cent wage increase for provincial civil servants was demanded in a brief presented to the cabinet today by the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

The association urged the government to set aside an appropriation in the next budget of at least 10 per cent of the present government payroll for increases that would be effective April 1, 1958.

The 10 per cent increase would be on top of the 7½ per cent average increase the government has promised it will pay after the next session, retroactive to July 1, 1957.

BELOW INDUSTRY

This would bring civil service salaries in line with prevailing average industrial wages as of July this year, the brief said.

"It should not be forgotten... that industrial salaries will doubtless enjoy further increases between July, 1957, and April, 1958."

The brief claims that increases granted to civil servants have been "infinitesimal" compared with those received by employees in industry and the federal government service.

Average civil service salaries in July of this year were 19.8 per cent below those paid in industry in the province, 6.8 per cent below those paid in industry across Canada and 15 per cent below those paid by the federal government, the brief said.

"The promised 7½ per cent increase would still leave civil service salaries $33.24 per month below average industrial wages and salaries in the province."

The association claimed that almost one civil servant in three leaves the provincial government service each year.

The rate of turnover in 1956 was 28.45 per cent, compared with 17 per cent in 1949, the brief said.

The association said this rapidly climbing rate of turnover is "one of the most reliable measures of dissatisfaction amongst provincial government employees with present wages and working conditions."

CRACKDOWN COMING

Union to Police 'Moonlighters'

Three hundred local machinists have decided to police their own ranks against "moonlighters" with the threat of withdrawal of union cards from any members who take two jobs.

Ernie Orchin, business representative of Machinists, Steamfitters and Helpers Union, Local 3, said today members passed a resolution aimed at moonlighters at a meeting Monday night.

The penalty is aimed at preventing members from taking a second job that could be filled by an unemployed person. However, all cases would be judged on their individual merits.

The action follows frequent and bitter attacks on "moonlighters" by Victoria labor leaders during the past several months.

"But this resolution applies

SCIENTIFIC TEAM TELLS OF HOPES

Ripple Blast to Bare Earth's Secrets

By MONTE ROBERTS

Hitherto unknown secrets about the earth's crust will be revealed when Ripple Rock, in Seymour Narrows, is blasted early next year, if plans of a scientific team are successful.

Representatives of the Pacific Naval Astrophysical Observatory, and the Royal Canadian Navy today revealed what they hoped to learn from the 750-ton explosive blast.

Their main hope is to measure the variations of the depth of the earth's crust.

It is believed that mountains have "roots"—that beneath mountain ranges, the crust bulges downward in the "mantle."

The earth itself is known to be composed of a crust, averaged about 20 miles deep, then a mantle, then a core.

Little is known about the mantle, but sensitive seismographs placed at planned intervals from the Ripple Rock blast may enable scientists to come up with an accurate measurement.

The speed of the ray of elastic set up by an earthquake has been established.

At the time of the blast, the factors to be determined are the time the blast takes to travel down to the bottom of the earth's crust, and then up again to the respective seismographs.

From the elapsed time, the distance travelled by the energy rays will be determined.

LOCATION PINNED

Under circumstances of a natural earthquake, all seismographs are used to determine the epicentre of the quake. In the case of the Ripple Rock "man made earthquake," the exact location is known in advance.

Scientists will install special seismographs at key points, mainly along the right-of-way of the CPR, and hope to record the shock waves as far away as the Saskatchewan border.

Thus measuring the "roots" beneath the Coast Range and the Rocky Mountains.

NAVY CO-ORDINATION

To pre-check accuracy of the final findings, a test blast of 10 depth charges, totalling about one and one-half tons of explosive, will be set off in Bentinck Arm, near Bella Coola, Dec. 12, by RCN explosive experts.

Seismographs will measure this explosion at Victoria, Horseshoe Bay (Beacon Hill Park), Lillooet, Alberni, and Ripple Rock itself.

Several government agencies are co-operating closely in the project. The data will be collected and evaluated by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, with W. G. Milne in charge.

Co-ordination of the project is the responsibility of Anthony Mollet of the Pacific Naval Laboratory. Heading the RCN team is explosives specialist Lt. K. W. Blackburn. The naval auxiliary vessel St. Anthony, under command of Cmdr. A. J. Proudfoot, will carry the depth charges to Bentinck Arm.

In every case, explosions are set off only after permission of the Federal Department of Fisheries. The charges will be set off at a depth of 300 feet, to minimize killing of fish.

Scientists emphasize that the Ripple Rock explosion, while called a "man-made earthquake," will be a very small one by standards of the major quakes which have occurred from natural causes.

Carved Christmas Gifts Could Head Your List!

By PENNY SAVER

The scent of pine and fir... h-m-m-m! Especially when it emanates from the woods used in beautiful hand-carved furniture, statues and plaques.

I'm writing about a little shop where you'll find all these things. In fact there are so many different and original ideas for your Christmas gift list, your head will be set swimming! One of the most interesting features in this little shop is to be found in the wood. It is all from our British Columbia forests—pine, fir and cedar. It will last for generations. Even the weather won't touch it!

A wise old owl peered at me in the daylight. He looked almost real! He sat majestically on the top of a letter opener. What a gift for the businessman in the family! The price is $2.95.

There are wee children's chairs with backs of carved animals. Why, wild bears, and cougars of British Columbia, of course! These exquisitely carved chairs run in price from $5 to $10. Make wonderful television seats for Junior. They are custom-made, so I dare you to try and find another of the same type!

Here's an idea that is not only original, it's practical! Why not have your address carved on a hard durable wood? It will show up in the dark at the bottom of your garden or driveway. If your house has a rustic air, then a plaque of fir with your name and address carved on it would complement the setting. The approximate price per letter on these plaques is $1.

Lamp stands are also to be found in this woody wonderland and it took all my courage to turn away from purchasing one for our living room. What a swishy gift for the nature lovers on your gift list! You can have stands carved in any shape and with any flower or animal you wish in the design.

What could be smarter in the modern or semi-modern living room than a low carved coffee table? Any scene can be worked into the top of a table. It will be a purchase that will stay with you forever! There are polished tables and benches for the home, too. They all run in price from $75 up.

Seems expensive for a penny-saving column, but has a machine-made table or bench as much wear in it as a hand-made piece? What do you think?

If you are interested in whittling on wood, my friend, how about taking a few lessons in the art at this little shop? The charge is four lessons for $15. Let's keep the wood carving of Canada on its feet! Phone me at 2-3131 for the name of the shop!

Growing Old Gracefully Is an Art

The term "growing old gracefully" has nothing to do with coming apart physically. It means an inner grace, a warmth that stems from experience, a realistic acceptance of things as they are. It does not mean that the body in which you dwell must add 30 useless pounds, become bulky or shapeless. It does not mean a defeatist attitude about your personal appearance.

Watch your weight and count your calories but don't talk about them. Don't discuss your age and never ask others their age. Don't start off a conversation by saying, "When I was a girl..." Don't inform older women that you have a hard time finding the right clothes because you've put on so much weight. Take off the poundage and wear the most becoming clothes you can find in the meantime.

If you object to your grey hair, have it tinted but keep it a matter that you discuss with your hairdresser only. By following such a program, most people will be unable to pinpoint your age. And, after all, it's your affair.

Christmas duties fall to the women in this country. They do most of the shopping, address the cards, cook and entertain during the holidays, wrap and mail the family's gifts to friends and relatives. They put in long hours at making the season festive.

Whether you have a job or are a homemaker or handle both, chances are you'll have your hands full this year. So don't neglect periods of rest wherever you can squeeze them in. They are essential both to your health and good looks. You can't be bright-eyed and sparkling on Christmas Eve if you're exhausted from the weeks that went before.

The trick is to work in a cat-nap whenever you can. It may be only 10 or 15 minutes at odd hours but it will make all the difference in keeping you refreshed.

In the winter, your hands feel especially dry and crackly. Indoor heat and outdoor cold accomplish this. Combat dry skin by creaming your hands after each washing. And at night, before you go to bed, give them a really lavish coating of cream or lotion.

As one coating penetrates, apply another. Give your elbows the same kind of treatment to prevent that rough, grey, unattractive look. And no matter how tired you are at night, do not skip this routine. It takes only seconds and pays off with great beauty dividends.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today I am bringing you some make-up tricks which Marlene Dietrich uses. When I asked a famous Hollywood expert to give me some of these he said, "This wonderful woman is alert every moment for new ideas that will help her improve herself in every way."

"She grasps suggestions gratefully where many women in her position would feel that they know it all. For instance, not long ago she came into the salon for some make-up, not knowing that there are always new ideas buzzing, she asked if there were anything she could do to improve her every-day appearance."

Because eye lining has become so popular, the expert advised her to carry the line which is marked along the upper eyelash roots down along the rim as it leaves the lashes to go down into the corners of the eyes. When the line is continued on top of the lid to the inside corners, it is entirely too visible and artificial looking. For the lashes are missing or so sparse in this location that only the line shows.

Even though Miss Dietrich has been given an honorary up-membership in the Make-up Artists' Association because she is so clever with make-up, she accepted this suggestion enthusiastically.

The expert called another thing to my attention. All of us are conscious of the way we look from view and most of us consider the back view. The expert said that few women realize that a face should be made up from the profile view as well. If you study Marlene's profile you will see that she has taken this tip to heart. Her eyebrows end at the correct place so that they will be seen to taper gracefully from the side. Eyes are lined and mascara applied so that those who are looking at her profile will be intrigued. Lips are arched enough to enhance the profile as well as the front view. Of course we should also look at our coiffure from the side.

Miss Dietrich feels that the eyes are the focal point in every face and is never without eye make-up. However, this is applied so artfully that the effect is natural but enchanting. All women can profit by learning more about the art of make-

A VISIT TO FIANCEE'S PARENTS

My son will visit his fiancée and her parents for a few days around New Year's. He has never met the family and wants to be sure to do the right thing. Will you tell us what is expected of him as a house guest?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

If your son is considerate and thoughtful at all times, he won't have anything to worry about and it will spare him the anguish of being self-conscious. He should be courteous and should willingly offer his services for any household tasks. He shouldn't monopolize his fiancée to the point of ignoring others in the family. He should be neatly dressed and keep his room tidy. If he has been taught how to make a bed, he can do that too, but he needn't be concerned if he doesn't. He should be aware of proper table manners, which is one of the most important requisites of good breeding. It is also important that he be punctual for all engagements. Being a house guest, his fiancée will probably see to that, but he should be aware of the clock anyway and plan accordingly. On his arrival, it is advisable to present his fiancée's parents with an impersonal gift, such as a box of candy or nuts, or he can arrange through your local florist to have some flowers delivered. After he returns home, he should write a sincere bread and butter letter and get it off in the mail immediately.

Two New Women Mayors in Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—A 41-year-old mother was elected Monday as the first woman mayor of Bothwell, Ont., but her one-vote margin over a male opponent faced her with a recount.

Mrs. Jean Tait, a councillor for three years, edged Morris Long, who polled 144 votes, in her first try for the mayoralty in the town of about 800.

She was one of many women who won offices as voters in many Ontario municipalities went to the polls.

In her spare time she helps her husband run their lumber business.

The town of Gravenhurst also has a woman mayor. Voters re-elected veteran Mrs. Wanda Miller. She polled 634 votes—409 more than Bert Hawkes.

But while Mrs. Tait and Mrs. Miller were tasting success, another woman mayor, Mrs. Grace McFarland of Leamington, was defeated after six years in office. She polled 1,198 votes to 1,473 for Arthur Cullen, her only opponent.

Your complexion at 40 depends on how you treat your skin today!

Everything your complexion needs to look younger... now in one cream.

Satura!

Another scientific discovery! Skin-Specialists uncovered the real reason why complexions lack the freshness of youth. It isn't the lack of natural oils that makes skin look dry, lifeless... that causes premature wrinkles and "crow's feet". It's the lack of moisture!

Satura was especially created by the famous Dorothy Gray Salon to put back and help your skin retain the vital moisture it must have to stay youthful looking. Satura contains special elements that draw moisture from the air and feed it to your skin to give it that young, dewy look.

Satura also contains 10,000 units of Natural Estrogenic Hormones per ounce. These hormones work magically from beneath to help the inner skin cells retain moisture... to help clear and firm tired skin... to smooth out and cushion away lines and tiny wrinkles.

In addition, Satura contains a rich helping of Vitamin A—to guard your skin against the flaky dryness caused by lack of moisture. No wonder Satura performs such youthful magic upon your skin... no wonder Satura is one of science's greatest aids to beauty through the years.

Woman's Appeal Allowed in Part

Driver of Fire Truck 25 Per Cent To Blame for Spectacular Accident

A woman motorist's claim that she was entitled to damages from the City of Victoria following a collision between her car and a city fire truck was allowed in part by the B.C. Court of Appeal Monday.

The appeal judges found, however, that she was 75 per cent to blame for the accident while the fire truck driver was 25 per cent to blame, and they awarded damages and costs in that proportion.

The collision occurred at Government and Bay Streets May 30, 1955.

Mrs. Dorothy Whitehead, 1517 Coldharbour Road, appealed against the judgment of Mr. Justice Macfarlane on March 1 last in which he dismissed her claim against the city and Edward Ball, 230 Robertson, the driver of the fire truck.

ON RESERVE DUTY

Her counsel, Donald Anderson, challenged the judge's ruling that Mrs. Whitehead could have avoided the accident by braking or swerving if she had been looking to the right on entering the intersection.

He emphasized that the fire truck was not going to a fire when the collision occurred but was travelling to headquarters on reserve duty.

This argument was upheld by Mr. Justice Davey who stated in his judgment:

"If the fire truck had been going directly to a fire I would doubt if the finding of the trial judge (Mr. Justice Macfarlane) should be disturbed."

"However, the driver was not going to a fire; he was going into reserve."

Mr. Justice O'Halloran dissented from the appeal court's decision because, he said, there was no evidence that the fire truck was going so fast the driver could have avoided the accident.

Mr. Justice Davey found that, while the fire truck was entitled to go through a red light at the intersection in order to get to headquarters as quickly as possible, the driver should have approached it at a slower speed to "allow him to keep a proper lookout to his left."

He said Mrs. Whitehead had suffered severe personal injuries and some damage to her car. She went through the intersection on a green light at about 25 miles an hour.

The fire truck went through a red light at about the same speed. Mrs. Whitehead did not see the fire truck at all and driver Ball did not see her car until they were about six feet apart.

Both negligent

The trial judge had dismissed Mrs. Whitehead's action and allowed the city's counter-claim because of her "lack of attention to what was going on around her."

Mr. Justice Davey ruled that there had been contributory negligence on both sides.

He pointed out that traffic at the intersection is regulated by "uncontrolled" traffic light which could not be changed to red by means of a switch at fire headquarters.

There was therefore no red light to deter Mrs. Whitehead from entering the intersection.

British Traffic Snarled by Fog

SAANICH VOTE ON LIBRARY HELD OVER TO NEXT YEAR

No referendum or by-law will be submitted in Saanich Dec. 12 on the proposed revision of the library agreement between Greater Victoria municipalities.

Saanich council Monday night tabled the proposal, involving an arrangement under which other municipalities would share the cost of Victoria library's new wing on condition that owner-electors voted for it.

Comptroller John Tribe told council he thought the vote would have to follow by-law procedures, requiring 10 clear days' notice before submission, which would make it too late for inclusion in the election day ballots.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 50-cent prize. The second question is answered by the day's winner. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Betty Langford, 11, Omaha, Neb., for her question:

What Is Air?

Let's imagine an empty box a foot long, a foot wide and a foot tall. It contains, of course, one cubic foot of ordinary air. We cannot see this air, feel it or smell it. It seems very calm and perhaps rather dull. Actually, our box of air is a seething arena. Compared with it, a ball game is dull and the fastest speed race is slow. But the players in our box of air are too small for our eyes to see.

Air is made of gases. And gases are made of particles of matter called molecules. You could not imagine the number of molecules in a cubic foot. There are about 300 billion billion of them in a cubic inch of ordinary air. Even so, they are not crowded. There is plenty of space for the gas molecules of the air to play around. And play they do.

At normal speeds, the bitsy molecules whiz along at about 1,000 miles an hour—or four miles every second. What's more, they disregard all traffic rules. Consequently, the accident rate is high—very high indeed. It is estimated that each molecule has about five billion accidents every second. Each accident is a collision with some other molecule. The crash merely jostles each of them into a different direction.

Big Traffic Jams

There are a few molecules of neon gas in every breath of air. There are also molecules of the gases hydrogen, krypton, helium, ozone and xenon. All over the world, these gases are thoroughly mixed together. The air in Omaha is basically the same as the air in Seattle or Boston. It may be cooler, warmer, damper, drier, cleaner or dustier. But the basic proportions of nitrogen and oxygen will be just about the same.

Syphon Like Vacuum

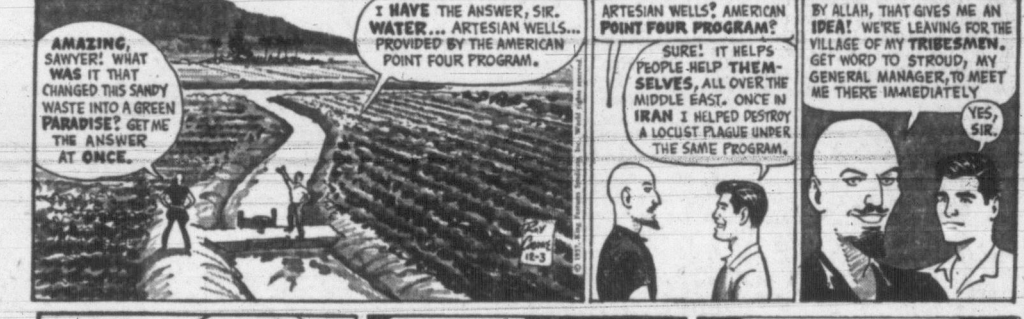

Andy sends a Hammond's World Atlas to Ronald Milne, age 13, of North Surrey, B.C., for his question:

How does a syphon work?

You make a small syphon when you suck a soda pop through a straw. As you draw in your breath, you pull the air up from inside the straw. This creates a small vacuum. And this vacuum acts like the vacuum pump cleaner or the vacuum in the heart of a tornado.

Normally, every so-called empty space is filled with air. A hole in the air acts like a hole in water. Other air flows in to fill the space. Air is pressing down on the surface of your soda pop. When you suck air from the straw, this air pressure is removed. You create a little vacuum.

The vacuum exerts a pulling power on the liquid below. The pop flows up to fill the hole in the air. This vacuum draws liquid as a rug cleaning vacuum draws dust. In the syphoning process, the air is taken from a tube and a stream of liquid rises to fill the hole in the air.

RCMP Issues Advice for Crime Victim

A printed procedure of what to do if held up by a gunman has been prepared by the RCMP for issue to merchants, sales clerks, cashiers and others who may be victimized.

It is the third in the RCMP's "Crime in Your Community" series and is distributed on a national scale.

Locally, Supt. J. R. W. Bordeleau, officer in charge of RCMP criminal investigation branch for British Columbia, said the main objective of the list, which is on a handy card for hanging near the telephone, is to help provide police with accurate descriptions of criminals.

The card says "It is hoped you will never have to use this card, but should an offence be committed on your property you can help the police by answering the questions asked below under 'descriptive points.' Study them so you will know how you can help."

QUESTIONS LISTED

"If you are victimized first notify the police then answer the questions on this card while the information is fresh in your memory."

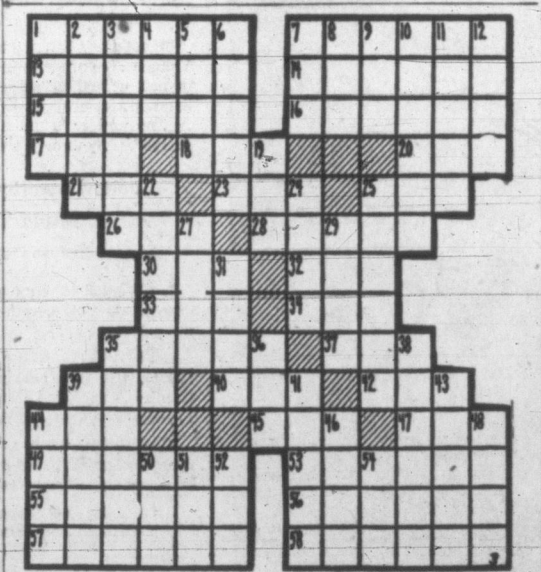

Then it gives tips on how to compare weights and heights with oneself, preservation of evidence such as tire prints and finger prints and advises "Keep calm and observe bandits closely."

There are 18 points to watch for, ranging from racial origin to scars, tattoos, clothing, speech, what kind of gun and any other physical peculiarity.

On the reverse side is a description aid chart giving the recognized types of head, nose, ears, eyes and posture.

Britons Flock To Hear Lanza

LONDON (Reuters) — Singer Mario Lanza, making his first concert appearance in Britain next month, has caused London's Royal Albert Hall's biggest stampede for tickets in 86 years.

The big auditorium's 7,000 seats were sold out in four hours. Now another concert is planned.

which British rulers paid royal "bounty" of £1 a baby to the parents of triplets and quadruplets.

Instead, the Queen will send congratulatory telegrams to the mothers and fathers of quads and triplets born in the United Kingdom. She had paid the sum from her own privy purse income of £60,000 a year.

A Buckingham Palace announcement said the payments are being discontinued "in view of the changes that have occurred" since Queen Victoria started the payments to help needy parents bowled over by the generosity of the stork.

The changes are understood to be mainly the payments now made to new parents by the post-war welfare state.

The Queen and her father, the late King George VI, paid out on 1,451 sets of triplets and 19 sets of quadruplets since 1936, when the latter became ruler. Their combined payments totalled £4,429.

Young Lovers Considering Legal Battle

EDINBURGH (AP) — Britain's latest pair of young lovers say they may flee to the United States to escape the consequences of parental opposition to their marriage.

"We are so much in love," honey-blond Tessa Kennedy, 19-year-old heiress, told a press conference today. "We have thought this over for a long time."

"If we marry, I certainly cannot go back to England," said 26-year-old Dominic Elwes. Tessa's father obtained a High Court order in London last Thursday prohibiting their marriage in England.

"I think we will go to America, where my father is," said Elwes. His father, Simon Elwes, is a portrait painter who recently opened a studio in New York City. He said he too opposes the marriage.

The couple met newspaper men after hiding out for six days. They said they planned to stay in Edinburgh for the additional 15 days necessary to establish residence, then marry in a civil ceremony. Dominic is Roman Catholic, Tessa Protestant.

Scottish law permits marriage of anyone over 16, with or without the parental nod. Tessa's father, Geoffrey Kennedy, got the English injunction because the law there gives parents a veto until the child is 21.

Kennedy's lawyer said in London the disapproving father plans to seek a second injunction in a Scottish court restraining them from marrying here either.

"We are going to fight this all the way," said Tessa. "If our parents bring action against us in a Scottish court, we will fight it. We will speak to them only through our solicitors."

Tessa still was wearing the black Dior gown in which she fled her home last week.

ANOTHER ART DISCOVERY

Reproduction of a painting which was bought by wealthy Chicagoan John F. Cuneo for $125 last May has turned out to be a rare work, worth perhaps $100,000. Dr. M. H. Goldblatt art gallery director at the University of Notre Dame said the painting is a long-lost masterpiece painted in 1520 by Andrea de Sarto. Painting was covered with dirty and discolored varnish and the removal of this matter revealed the rare work beneath. Picture was bought at a New York auction. (AP Wirephoto.)

Briton to Adjudicate B.C. Music Festival

PENTICTON (CP) — A British philharmonic choir and orchestra leader will be one of four adjudicators at the 32nd annual Okanagan music festival here April 14 to 19.

W. Stanley Vann of Peterborough, England, will adjudicate with Vancouver's Mara McBirney, Alan Crawley of Penticton, and Leon Forrester from England.

Mr. Vann conducts the Peterborough Philharmonic choir and orchestra and is master of music at Peterborough Cathedral.

Miss McBirney is a member of the Royal Academy of Dancing and Mr. Forrester a concert pianist and organist.

Mr. Crawley, adjudicator of speech arts, is an authority on Canadian literature and has contributed reviews and criticisms to a number of publications. He is a former editor of Contemporary Verse.

Disc Jockey Fired Over Presley Record

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Radio station KEX said Monday night it fired disc jockey Al Priddy for playing Elvis Presley's recording of "White Christmas" on the air.

Station manager Mel Bailey said Priddy violated the ban the station put on the Presley recording about three weeks ago.

The record was banned, Bailey said, because "it is not in the good taste we ascribe to Christmas music. Presley gives it a rhythm and blues interpretation. It doesn't seem to me to be in keeping with the intent of the song."

Bailey said he was at home listening to KEX Sunday morning when he heard the record.

Disc Jockey Fired Over Presley Record

Priddy said Monday night "the word was passed around the station we weren't supposed to play the record. But I figured the listeners were entitled to hear it."

"We don't hold back anything else Presley has done. The record is certainly not objectionable," he said.

Jazz of Bygone Day to Feature Society's Performance Tonight

Swingin' jazz of a gone but not forgotten era will wall out of Club Sirocco tonight at 8:30 when the new Victoria Jazz Society presents a 2½-hour history of jazz.

"Jazzorama" features a picked 16-piece band of the city's top exponents of the jazz medium playing big arrangements of music which rank high in libraries of every serious collector.

Theme will be set by the opener—a brassy setting of an old Duke Ellington standard—"It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing".

Arrangement is by Buddy

Glover. Jazz Society president, drummer Mike Pretty, trumpeter Roy Derry and Bill Smith.

The program digs back to Dixie and with narration written by radio jazz commentator Jim Carney and producer Glover will endeavor to articulate New Orleans and Chicago styles.

One of the big band numbers here will be "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans".

A five-piece group led by piano man Bunk McEwen will dish out a tossed salad of Benny Goodman favorites.

Other musicians in the show will be Jim McKay on bass, and

LESSON
By Oswald Jacoby
The bidding. He never drew a slam against him. It is a slam should make. He did not like the position of his king of clubs in front of the opening club bid.

Strong measures seemed necessary and Lou decided that a double might cause South to go wrong.

Lou's next step was to open the four of clubs. Without the double South might well have taken the bull by the horns and let the lead run around to his queen but South was positive that Lou had to be leading a short suit.

South went up with Dummy's ace, ruffed a club in his own hand, casied the King of spades and led a spade out of spades and South unboozed. Unfortunately here he could do about it. Led another club, ruffed a fourth club with his last hope of making the hand. This would drop, or maybe ere. With a diamond and played and simply shot a heart and played it to force a little diamond was still had paid off. The game gone down without the made the hand. We will

700 Island VLA Homes

Veterans Take Advantage of Ottawa Plan; Many Do Work Themselves

By TONY DICKASON
There have been about 700 houses built on Vancouver Island under the Veterans' Land Act since the end of the Second World War.
Total cost is about $700,000, or $10,000 a home. Approximately 400 of these homes are in the Greater Victoria area.

Home owners are mostly, of course, overseas veterans of either the 1939-45 conflict, or fighters in the Korean War. But a year's service in Canada also qualifies for help under VLA.

VLA is designed to aid ex-service personnel in adjusting to civilian life by establishing a family unit and a home.

In effect, VLA helps cut home-building costs. There's a lot of land available, including city lots, for those with qualifications. Applications are open for veterans until Jan. 1, 1960.

If a veteran, you apply; an advisory board determines whether or not you are eligible; you can get a VLA loan up to $8,100 and pay off over 25 years at an average of $28 a month.

Most recent of the VLA projects in the Victoria area is a 50-acre development in Saanich, just off the Island Highway some six miles from town.

Before next spring, 30 houses will be started or finished. Each home in the beautifully treed area will have 1.6 acres. Cost of the homes will range between $9,000 and $15,000.

About 30 per cent of veterans applying for assistance believe in the "do it yourself" principle.

Work on new VLA home will be finished by Walter Dedick in few days.

One of these is HMC Dockyard fireman Walter Dedick, 27, who has a charming 820 square foot place almost completed on Blenkinsop Road.

COST UNDER VALUE
He started building last April; has done most of the work himself; and outcome is a home which could be valued at around $10,000. Actual cost to him is $7,911.

Walter did a five-year navy stint, and saw action off Korea. He has four immediate neighbors, all of whom are VLA builders.

He can't sell his place unless he wants to lose $1,400, the amount given him as a conditional grant. After 10 years, though, he may dispose of his property.

This VLA agreement is to prevent speculative real estate projects. This, he states, is due to "careful screening" of applicants.

Power Line Instruction Recommended

COURTENAY—Electrocution of Comox airman Sgt. W. D. MacKay, 30, when his car hit a power pole has prompted a coroner's jury recommendation that the B.C. Power Commission should publicize what to do when power lines are down.

Sgt. MacKay died Saturday when his car was in contact with lines carrying 13,000 volts.

The jury suggested the BCPC notify the public of the proper procedure to follow if any power lines are down or objects are in contact with them.

U.S. Moon To Soar At Dawn

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—All is in readiness for the firing Wednesday of a slender rocket carrying America's hopes of duplicating Russia's leap into space, a navy spokesman said today.

If there have been any last-minute mechanical bugs in the navy's Vanguard missile, they have been of a minor and inconsequential nature, a source close to the firing operation said.

Only the weather could interfere with the firing, now expected for 8 a.m. E.S.T. (5 P.S.T.) Wednesday.

A weather front is expected to roll across the missile launching site some time Wednesday afternoon but too late to interfere with the firing if it goes off at the morning hour.

The navy source said everything in connection with the launching of the 72-foot, three-stage rocket that will attempt to put America's six-inch baby moon into an orbit is proceeding according to plan.

Several final checkouts were being repeated, however, to aim at perfection in the satellite launching.

Another source said that if anything had been wrong with the Vanguard it must have been strictly of a minor nature and had been corrected because there was no change in the firing schedule.

It requires good visibility and only moderate winds for a launching.

LET WORLD KNOW
If successfully orbited, the U.S. satellite will send back a radio signal to let the world know the challenge of Russia's two whirling satellites has been met.

The Vanguard test could be preceded today by the firing of a less spectacular missile, possibly a Snark, which is a long-range ramjet device hugging the earth's atmosphere at a speed slightly below that of sound.

Although billed as a scientific sideshow to the military tests going on here at a feverish pace, the scheduled Vanguard firing has brought the biggest crowds of newspapermen and official and unofficial observers here yet.

LONDON (UP)—The world's largest radio-telescope will not try to track the American earth satellite the way it did the Russian Sputnik, its director Professor A. C. B. Lovell said today. He said the American satellite is too small.

Theft Threat Cancels Show Of Goya Book

Art Gallery Exhibition Off Following Telephone Message

Fourteen words slurred into a telephone forced cancellation of the world's first exhibition today of the Goya sketch book that recently put Victoria on the international art treasures map.

The cloak-and-daggerish twist of an anonymous telephone tip added another strange chapter to the story surrounding the 200-year-old sketch book, discovered to be a Goya after being auctioned for $20 here, and now valued at $465,000.

"I just want to warn you, there is guys out to get your Goyas," an uneducated, male voice told Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery, at 7.45 p.m. Monday.

TOOK NO CHANCES

Crank or criminal? Mr. Graham and Cmdr. P. F. Fairfull, gallery president, didn't know but they took no chances.

After consultation with owner J. P. E. Klavervyden, they cancelled the two-day exhibition which was to have started this morning.

The call came only hours after the gallery had started.

Russians Urge Peaceful End To Algeria Strife

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia called today for an end to the fighting in Algeria and urged a peaceful solution beneficial to both the French and Algerians.

In an unusually mild speech, delegate Arkady Sobolev told the UN's 82-nation political committee that all people have a right to freedom and self-government.

But, he added, Russia recognizes the existence of France's special ties with Algeria and would welcome an agreement that would be to the interest of both sides.

T-BRICKS FOR KOREA

Day's Donations Highest

Victorians cracked the "donation barrier" Monday by giving $669 to the Times' T-Bricks for Korea Fund.

They beat last Friday's donation high by $69 to bring today's total to $2,499.

Korean youngsters who are asking only for healthy bodies may yet have their happiest Christmas ever.

But before Victoria can give them a Christmas gift of a children's TB outpatients' pavilion, we need $9,500. And there are only 22 donating days before Christmas.

Brick by brick, Times' readers are building that pavilion in the war-saddened city of Seoul. The Hotel Douglas led Monday's donations with $100—1,000 bricks.

The boys' Hi-Y Club of Esquimalt High School followed close behind with a generous donation of $25.

One of the most touching donations came from a Victorian who wishes to remain anonymous "in gratitude for pension increase." The pensioner enclosed $10—one dollar more than the federal increase on pension cheques at the end of November.

Many other donations are coming from people who give in the memory of late loved ones. Donations for the TB pavilion may be sent to the Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street, or on the Times branch office, Broad Street.

Cheques should be payable to the Unitarian Services Committee "T-Bricks for Korea." Receipts are sent for each donation. (See donors, Page 2.)

Toronto Star Raises Price to Ten Cents

TORONTO (CP)—The Star announced its street-sale price will be doubled to 10 cents from five cents, effective Monday, Dec. 9.

The rate for home delivery will be increased to 35 cents a week from 35 cents at the same time.

The Star said the higher price is made necessary by steadily mounting production costs.

Cost of a single issue has been five cents since April, 1952. Before that it was three cents. Last April The Star raised its home delivery rate to 35 cents from 30.

The Star story says: "It is now generally accepted belief in the newspaper industry that the 10-cent price will soon be general in most metropolitan centres."

Ike Asks Congress For More

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower outlined to congressional leaders today plans for a $2,000,000,000 increase in the defence budget, devoted primarily to missiles and anti-submarine equipment.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) of the Senate Republican policy committee said as he came out of a five-hour White House conference that the president told the Congress members he will ask for $3,940,000,000 in foreign aid funds.

This compares with $3,435,000,000 appropriated in Congress this year in new money for mutual security.

Bridges told reporters that despite economies which may be made elsewhere, a $2,000,000,000 increase in military spending will carry the defence budget figure above $40,000,000,000.

Spending in the current year has been $38,400,000,000.

PRESIDES 2½ HOURS

Eisenhower himself spent 2½ hours in the session, talking part in the opening portion devoted to plans for the NATO summit meeting starting in Paris Dec. 16, and coming back for the defence discussion later.

Vice-President Richard Nixon took over the chair while the president, recuperating rapidly from the mild stroke he suffered eight days ago, was absent.

A major item reported under discussion in the NATO program part of the talk was reported to be a revision of the law to permit much broader exchange of nuclear weapons information with U.S. allies.

The law as it now stands allows exchange of information on nuclear power plants but forbids giving out information on weapons design or transferring such weapons themselves.

It Was an Excuse

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Mrs. Beryl Mavis Hooton was awarded a divorce from John F. Hooton Monday. She testified he refused to work for fear she might be unfaithful in his absence.

Man Burns to Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—An unidentified man died early today in the burning cabin of a moored tug despite efforts to save himself. Police said the man's body was found on the floor of the cabin of the 45-foot tug Kan-sas where he had collapsed in a vain attempt to reach the door.

Summit Talk Rejection Hit

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith said today he is "distressed" and "disturbed" that whenever Russia proposes high-level discussion among the major powers, "unnamed, unidentified official spokesmen in Washington" reject the proposals out of hand.

The minister, undergoing questioning by the Commons external affairs committee during consideration of his department's $58,500,000 estimates, said "the time now has come to take a new look in respect of our relations with Soviet Russia."

There should be no delay in that regard, consistent with maintaining the West's defence. Recent advances in science had presented "an entirely new situation" which demanded recognition and reassessment.

During the committee's sitting he:

1. Said that should a Canadian be commanding North America's integrated air-defence system during an enemy attack—during the absence of the American commander—he does not know from whom the Canadian would hold authority to act.

2. Disclosed that Canada had "urged" that the forthcoming NATO ministerial council meeting in Paris, to be led by heads of member governments, go on despite President Eisenhower's illness. Postponement "might have been used by some countries in the world to show that NATO has to obey U.S. suggestion."

3. Announced the council will consider "co-operation in terms of increasing the deterrent forces against aggression."

he knows about summit conference proposals has been from press reports. But "I must say frankly that I am distressed at the reception by 'official' sources and reliable spokesmen in Washington to any proposal for a high level conference."

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) asked to whom Gen. Partridge is responsible. Mr. Smith said the question should be asked in the committee studying defence estimates.

Mr. Pearson said Gen. Partridge had been quoted as saying he gets his orders from the U.S. government. If he were absent would Air Marshal Slemon get his orders from the U.S. government?

Or did the commanders really get their orders from the two governments?

Mr. Smith did not answer. CCF Leader Coldwell asked, "Are we to go away with the impression that we have handed our defence wholly over to the military and that there is no political control?"

When Mr. Smith said no, Mr. Knowles commented: "Mr. Coldwell's apprehension is well-founded."

There was much that could be done, "while keeping up the payment of our premium on our defence insurance policy of NATO," in the way of co-operation in human and cultural fields. Points of friction could be the subject of patient negotiation.

Questioned by Lester Pearson (L. Algoma East), his predecessor in office, Mr. Smith said all

Mister Smith may hev somethin' there. 'Course we don't want 't adopt a dog-in-th'-sputnik attitude.

Boo From the Gallery

YEARS ago, when I was a juvenile (with no serious record of delinquencies against me, Del gratia) I joined a student group to hear a distinguished speaker.

The gentleman who honored us that day had an international reputation, but which escapes my memory.

Unfortunately, during the course of his speech, he used a phrase which, in itself, was completely innocent, but which, through local connotations, had a specific and mildly indelicate significance for us. The phrase set us snickering, like the bunch of juveniles we were.

When the distinguished speaker had finished his address an adult in the gathering very properly stood up and told us what she thought of our manners. When she had finished we felt small enough to walk under the door without opening it.

RESCUED

Then the guest of honor came to our rescue. He had, he said, lectured to classes in college and he had found among his students a fair amount of light-mindedness. A young person, he argued, could be a decent individual and still snicker at the wrong time. If something touched his sense of humor.

The incident came to mind when I read the story about Boy Scouts booing and hissing Dr. Mortimer Adler because the doctor told the youngsters they would have to do more homework to become the scientists the United States needed.

Booing and hissing is a pretty wretched response to the doctor's appeal. But I also remember that at the time we snickered at the distinguished international speaker, we also followed a wretched routine in English classes, too.

At that time we had a professor who prescribed certain reading for us at the close of each lecture. Had we covered all the ground suggested, we'd have had little time for other studies and no time at all for being collegiate, as we understood the term at that time.

So we developed a sort of Greek chorus.

Stott

When the lecturer named the first bit of prescribed reading, one group would groan. When another item was added to the reading list, a second batch of students would moan. And so it went to the end of the period. With all the moaning it must have sounded like milk time in a dairy, though precious little milk there was, intellectually speaking.

Young people act that way, with no apparent appreciation for their responsibilities. And yet, generation after generation, they grow out of it. How and why, I guess I'll never know.

Occasionally these days something is said to suggest we're living in a world and an age when there just isn't going to be time to grow out of irresponsibility. Maybe there won't be. But careless kids can grow up quickly when they have to. They did that during the war years. And, to a degree, they do it now at college.

PLAYTIME'S OVER

Only how do you go about convincing enough of them that playtime is over when playtime actually is over? As the educationists put it now, youngsters should start at a very early age to follow the courses they need to become the kind of people the country is calling for.

That means, among other things, that a lot of them will have to take to heart the remarks of Dr. Adler. They'll have to study harder and longer, no matter how conventional it may be to boo homework.

But what's the inducement? A kid of today can understand rewards in terms of material things, flashy cars, good clothes, smart homes. He can understand satisfaction in terms of popularity.

Where, though, in a world which puts a premium on time and labor saving devices—which points out the futility of doing something the hard way when there's an easy way to do it—is the youngster going to get the constitution which enables him to persist doggedly with the five-finger exercises of learning? How do you drive into him recognition of the fact that he needs skill practice and lots of it?

Somewhere along the line a youngster has to be given a sense of values which recognizes the necessity of work. Where do they sell that sense of values? Or where have they ever sold it? How do you wrap it up to look attractive?

Detecting Allergies

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Any number of people ask, "What do you do for allergy?" Usually, the first thing to do is to try to find out what allergen is causing the trouble. For instance, I myself, for most of my life suffered greatly from indigestion, and all of this disappeared the day I found, by keeping a diary of the unusual foods eaten just before I had a stomach upset, that the trouble was due to chicken, and particularly chicken soup or chicken gravy. In the last 20 years, since I have learned to leave chicken alone, I have been a very healthy man.

Also, all my life I used to suffer terribly from canker sores in my mouth. For five days at a time I would suffer much pain from the little white ulcers. When I kept a record of the unusual foods I had eaten just before I got an attack, I found that every time I had eaten chocolate. Since leaving chocolate alone, I have been free from canker sores.

Ever since I was a boy, I have had brief spells of sneezing—a sort of hay fever. Because these attacks came at any time of year, in any part of the world, and in any house, it was pretty obvious that they were not due to pollen or to anything limited to my house. By watching closely, I soon found that I had these spells whenever I picked up some papers that had been lying around where they were not due to pollen or to anything limited to my house. By watching closely, I soon found that I had these spells whenever I picked up some papers that had been lying around where they were not due to pollen or to anything limited to my house. to the ones in which she had trouble, and soon he reported that he thought it was a pressed board. When he took some scrapings from this board, and scattered the dust in my consulting room, the woman began to wheeze and the proof was complete. I once published a booklet on how to go at this type of detective work.

PROBLEMS OF THE GIFTED CHILD

Many parents and teachers are puzzled by the problems that arise with the handling of the gifted and highly intelligent child. Often he is somewhat of a problem at school because he gets bored with the slow progress of some of his classmates. Often his parents have difficulties because they don't understand him, or don't know how to control him. I was just reading a fine book which all parents who are wondering how to bring up a child with a very high intelligence quotient could find helpful. It is called "Teaching the Bright and Gifted: How to Prevent the Waste of One of the Nation's Greatest Resources," by Norma E. Cutts and Nicholas Moseley (Prentice-Hall).

As the authors say, the bright child is quick to see how he can take advantage of the parent whose discipline is inconsistent. He is quick to play one parent against the other, and he may even play his parents at home against his teachers at school. He may enjoy testing his wit and his will against the forces of his environment. Luckily, most of these children are quick to respect firm and consistent discipline. When they find that misbehavior always brings a quick penalty they soon decide that good behavior is the part of wisdom. If they have a good teacher who knows how to handle them with a firm hand, they can be as good as gold. But if at home the parents have abdicated, and believe that it is wrong to teach any self-control or politeness or decency, they are likely to have a bad time of it.

This book is filled with good answers to all the questions that parents of gifted children are likely to ask. Should the child be allowed to go ahead rapidly? When the teacher says, "He's wonderfully bright and he learns almost instantly, but he's lazy and won't do much," what do you do?

It certainly is tremendously important to the nation that these gifted children be taught well and helped to go through college. The nation so needs them and the gifts that many of them can bring to civilization are very great.

Sacrifices Halt Reds, UBC Head Warns

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the University of British Columbia warned Monday that the West must make sacrifices to resist Communist domination.

"If we are to survive and avoid slavery we must agree upon objectives and directions and discipline ourselves to make the necessary sacrifices to achieve these," Dr. Norman MacKenzie told the Men's Canadian Club.

He said Canadians tend to fritter away their time on non-essentials, "whereas our competitors have ruthlessly and continuously concentrated on the job at hand—the building of strength and the acquisition of power."

He said he loves athletics and has "no complaint about the Grey Cup events except that they should be kept in proper perspective."

"If the best student at UBC could receive plaudits like Miss Carol Lucas (UBC student named Miss Grey Cup) — and we're all proud of her—then I would be happier."

Press Empire Head Gannett Dies at 81

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Frank E. Gannett, who built a $3,000 stake into a newspaper empire, died today. He was 81. The publisher had been under medical care since April, 1955, when he suffered a fracture of a vertebra in a fall downstairs at his home.

He retired last April as president of the Gannett Company, Incorporated. The company controls and operates 22 newspapers, four radio stations and three television stations. Most of the Gannett newspapers are in New York state.

Wave of Sabotage Hits U.K. Cars Before Shipment

LONDON (Reuters) — The Daily Telegraph says the British motor industry is seriously concerned over a wave of sabotage to cars being prepared for shipment overseas.

The newspaper quoted a shipping company official as saying sabotage in the last few months. The damage took place either while the cars were on docks awaiting to be loaded aboard ships or shortly after they were put aboard.

Fenders of the cars had been dented, tire valves removed, door handles wrenched off and offensive remarks scratched on door panels and trunks. Detachable accessories, including spare wheels, had disappeared.

Newsman Under Spotlight

LONDON (Reuters)—A judicial inquiry investigating alleged leakages of secret government financial information today turned the spotlight on a number of London newspaper writers and the nature of the sources they use.

The inquiry, which opened Monday, is gathering information on reports that various speculators were tipped off in advance of the government's intention last September to increase the bank rate to seven per cent from five per cent.

These speculators unloaded fixed interest government bonds rapidly and thereby escaped loss when the market for them tumbled with the announcement of the new discount rate.

By buying back cheaply, some of them are thought to have made large profits.

The investigation into the alleged leak has taken on heavy political undertones. The Labor party has attacked strongly for the last two months, hinting a political scandal, despite repeated disclaimers from the government.

Today's session of the inquiry, set up with full powers to take evidence, went over reports appearing in the British press suggesting that a leak had occurred.

Frederick Ellis, financial editor of The Daily Express, wrote at the time that an unnamed insurance company had been a big advance seller.

Today he testified he had asked a leading stockbroker, John Elkington, what he had heard about the leakage. Ellis said Elkington pointed his thumb over his shoulder at an insurance company office.

"That was the Royal Exchange Assurance office," Ellis said.

Juvenile Delinquency Talk Heard by Gyros

Juvenile delinquency was the subject of a talk to Gyro Club members on Monday at the Empress Hotel by Bernard Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School.

Mr. Gillie outlined the work done by the Community Welfare Council Committee on juvenile delinquency, of which he is chairman. He discussed causes, problems and proposed remedies for delinquent behavior among juveniles.

OUT OF JAIL WEDNESDAY, NOW BACK FOR NEW TERM

John Brenton of Duncan, who was released from the B.C. Penitentiary last week after 23 months imprisonment, today was sent back to jail.

He was sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court to six months in Oakalla Prison for taking a car without the owner's consent.

Brenton asked the court to be lenient in view of his long imprisonment on a breaking, entering and theft charge.

"I just got out of penitentiary Wednesday and I would like to put myself at the mercy of the court," he said.

The magistrate replied that he could not overlook Brenton's criminal record.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Dr. Desmond Kidd, burly B.C. scout commissioner never misses an opportunity of emphasizing the international spirit of scouting.

He tells this story of a Jewish Canadian scout leader attending the World Jamboree in England. It was Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath, and the scouter wanted to attend the local synagogue.

Seeking a companion, he strolled round to the Israeli scout camp and found a party of boys sitting outside.

"Aren't you fellows going to the synagogue?" he asked. "Oh no," they replied, "we are the Arab members of the Israeli group."

Spryest veteran at the Point Ellice Bridge opening Saturday was 95-year-old Herbert Kent, Victoria's grand old man of music.

Defying a cold wind, eagle-eyed Mr. Kent sat bareheaded through the ceremonies, joined lustily in the singing of "O Canada" and spotted dozens of people he has known over the years.

Although I had met him only once before, he singled me out of the crowd and said: "I noticed a slight mistake in your article on ..."

But we won't go into that.

I hear that Eric Charman, one of Victoria's best-known bachelors, is planning a spring trip to the altar with pretty, fair-haired Dianne Abernethy of Victoria.

Eric is still better known as the live-wire president of Victoria Progressive Conservative Association, though he works for Ald. J. Donald Smith, Social Credit MLA for Victoria.

W. J. Hughes, who came to

Victoria from Shropshire, England, nearly 50 years ago, showed me a copy of The Shropshire Chronicle containing a picture of Vancouver on its editorial page.

The picture is fine but the caption, also, refers to Vancouver as "the glorious capital city of British Columbia." En route: A stiff letter from Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

Already canvassing for Christmas in persuasive Bernard Shaw, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas decorations committee.

Mr. Shaw believes downtown merchants will subscribe at least $3,000 this year to the cost of enlivening city streets with festive colored lights and holly baskets.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Theft of a 24-inch chain saw worth $179.40 some time since 3 p.m. Friday was reported to city police Monday by Mc and Mc department store, 1400 Government.

A special variety show will take place at the Christmas party of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on Wednesday in the Bay Street Armory at 8 p.m.

Shipping men say many ships which would ordinarily "top off" with paper or pulp are now taking complete cargoes of lumber, increasing their working time in lumber ports. Cowichan Bay and Chemainus, in addition to Victoria, have been exceptionally busy over the past month.

Post office officials today appealed to residents to use "green" and "yellow" labels to speed up the handling of Christmas mail this month.

The green labels are for out-of-town mail and the yellow for local letters.

The labels, as well as a list of Christmas mailing dates and instructions on proper addressing, packaging and posting of Christmas cards, letters and parcels, are being delivered to homes by postmen this week.

Noble Cecil Holt was elected president of the Victoria Gizeh Temple on Monday night at the Knight's of Pythias Hall.

Also elected were Noble Charles Savage, vice-president; Noble Jack Walton, secretary; Noble Ken Davies, treasurer; directors for two-year terms, Nobles Al Bagattini, Jack Halton, Frank Briers, and directors for one-year terms Nobles Harry Parks, Gertrude Greenwood and Bill Taaffe.

Commissioning ceremonies for the new minesweeper HMCS Cowichan will be held at the builder's yard, Yarrows Ltd., at 3 p.m., Dec. 12.

On commissioning, the Cowichan will be attached to the Pacific Command, based at Esquimalt.

Community Chest today inched towards a goal of $30,000 in a "Finish the Job" drive that ends Thursday.

Collections have increased to $211,000 — $26,000 away from the minimum amount to keep 20 member agencies operating in 1958.

Donations may be sent to Community Chest headquarters, Spencerhouse, or left at chest collection points at the Hudson's Bay Company, T. Eaton Co. Ltd. or Woodwards.

Vancouver Island lumber ports are working at capacity, due in part to the pulp and paper strike.

All available berths at Ogden Point are occupied today by lumber carriers, and an "overflow" ship is loading at the Victoria Machinery Depot outer wharf.

Black Ball ferry service between Nanaimo and Vancouver will be temporarily curtailed effective Saturday with the trips from both ports at 6 a.m. and the midnight sailings cut out.

The move is to effect annual repairs to the Chinook and Kahloke.

Thus the first sailing in the day from each end will be at 8 a.m. and the last at 10 p.m.

A lecture on "Traffic Safety" will be given to the YMCA So-Ed members by Cpl. E. W. Dunk, RCMP, tonight at 8 in the Mural Room of the YMCA.

$1 Million Plan for New Schools Ready to Start Early Next Year

Greater Victoria School Board will launch another $1,000,000 phase of the current school building program early in the new year, it was learned today.

Top of the program are three new elementary schools—Lake Hill, Hampton and Uplands.

Following these projects will be the new Esquimalt High School for the Colville Road, Lampson Street area.

Board officials announced tenders will be called for the three new six-room elementary schools in January or February. Each will also contain an activity room. Estimated cost of each is $148,000.

Plans are nearly ready for the Lake Hill School which will be located near Morris Drive and Lucas.

Working drawings are being prepared for the Hampton School, which will be erected on Regina, near Burnside.

Preliminary plans are being

'IT'S LIKE WALKING!'

"Supporting cast" at Times' reporter Kerr's skating debut was Peggy Cunningham, left, 11, of 4575 Viewmont, and

Sandra Kattler, 11, of 2908 Shakespear. "Fall girl" in background is skating pro Fay Morris.

Secret for Skating Success? ...A Good Supporting Cast!

By DINAH KERR

They say Barbara Ann Scott has hung up her skates.

Well, bleach my hair and call me "Babs." Chip the ice off the choreography for "Alice in Wonderland" because I am ready.

I have completed a dazzling debut before the toddlers of Victoria Figure Skating Club. It was my first time on skates and they laughed when I stood up to play.

I will admit here and now that it was not a solo performance. I had a supporting cast of two—one on either side.

KEEP THEM

I owe a lot to those youngsters and until I master a turn I will keep them in the act.

It was they who persuaded me to take the wooden guards off my skates before I stepped onto the ice at Memorial Arena. "We'll hold your elbows," they said.

Then we began. We glided like three swans—I was the 8-foot tall one in the middle—across the rink.

AWESTRUCK

Crowds of children gathered from all corners to form an awe-struck semi-circle. "If you moved your feet, the girls wouldn't have to pull so hard," whispered skating pro Fay Morris.

I moved my feet and it was then I knew that Barbara hadn't retired a moment too soon.

I had been sweating icicles for nothing. Skating was a cinch!

You just walk fast, and I've been walking in figure eights and circles for years. It's just a matter of time before I step it up a bit, and put my act on ice.

PEP TALK

My debut over, I was given a pep talk on the figure skating club by ice committee member Doug Doidge.

The club, he said, will be staging a "Centennial Revue" at the Arena Jan. 18. All members—700 of them, aged three to 79—will be taking part.

Elders to don an historical costume will be Matt Fagan who used to match skates with hockey's "Silver Fox" Lester Patrick at Victoria's first arena when both were boys.

Doug didn't ask me to join the revue and I didn't like to tell him I wouldn't charge a dime.

He did say, however, that members are rehearsing now

at sessions Sunday, from 10 to 11 a.m., Friday and Sunday from 5 to 7 p.m., Friday and Saturday at 11 a.m., and Monday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

He said membership fee was $12 for juniors, $15 for intermediates and $20 for seniors.

"A lot of parents give their children membership certificates for Christmas," he said.

It's a good idea, of course, but $20 is a lot to ask from my folks ...

LITTLE BAIT

Doug seemed to realize this and he tossed in a little bait. "A number of our members are training for the Pacific Coast championships at Nanaimo in January," he said.

"And last year two girls graduated into 'Ice Capades'."

What's more, the club has three skating pros to supervise practice sessions—Fay Morris, who is also directing the "Centennial Revue", Mary Rose Thacker and Jane Patterson.

"It's a wonderful club, one of the largest in Canada," Doug said. "But we'd like to enroll even more members if we could."

"I'm thinking it over."

Budget Up At Oak Bay

Provisional Oak Bay budget of $1,495,050 for 1958 is an increase of $72,499 over last year's total expenditure, council heard Monday.

Main increases are school board, $30,000; fire protection, which includes a new fire truck, $24,000; debt charges covering the new municipal hall and local improvements $28,770, and the Royal Jubilee Hospital, $11,000.

The Municipal Act states that until an annual budget is adopted, no expenditure can be made that is not provided for in the provisional budget, except with approval of the inspectors concerned.

To offset the provisional increase, centenary grants of more than $23,000 have been deleted.

Saanich Boy Still Lost

A 16-year-old Saanich boy who "went for a walk" before Sunday breakfast still has not returned home.

Police said David Michael Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Jones, 3364 Doncaster, likely will show up on his own accord.

Apparently he took with him his passport—he came to Victoria from Cardiff, Wales, in July—and $10, indicating he intended to leave home, possibly to look for a job, his parents think.

Although he was a good student, David's school principal said he had some difficulty adjusting to the Canadian system.

David wore grey trousers, tan windbreaker with a silk "Lacarne" badge, tan raincoat and black shoes. He is five feet two inches in height, slight, blond and blue-eyed.

Clothing Store Fire

There was a hot time at John McMaster Clothing, 1012 Fort, Monday at 11.55 p.m.

Firemen reported an electric clock developed a short circuit and began to smoulder, causing $5 damage.

Smoking clock was spotted by a police patrolman.

Civil Servants Want Pay Boost

Brief to B.C. Cabinet Asks 10 Per Cent April 1

An average 10-per-cent wage increase for provincial civil servants was demanded in a brief presented to the cabinet today by the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

The association urged the government to set aside an appropriation in the next budget of at least 10 per cent of the present government payroll for increases that would be effective April 1, 1958.

The 10 per cent increase would be on top of the 7½ per cent average increase the government has promised it will pay after the next session, retroactive to July 1, 1957.

BELOW INDUSTRY

This would bring civil service salaries in line with prevailing average industrial wages as of July this year, the brief said.

"It should not be forgotten ... that industrial salaries will doubtless enjoy further increases between July, 1957, and April, 1958."

The brief claims that increases granted to civil servants have been "infinitesimal" compared with those received by employees in industry and the federal government service.

Average civil service salaries in July of this year were 19.8 per cent below those paid in industry in the province, 6.8 per cent below those paid in industry across Canada and 15 per cent below those paid by the federal government, the brief said.

The promised 7½ per cent increase would still leave civil service salaries $33.24 per month below average industrial wages and salaries in the province.

The association claimed that almost one civil servant in three leaves the provincial government service each year.

The rate of turnover in 1956 was 28.45 per cent, compared with 17 per cent in 1949, the brief said.

The association said this rapidly climbing rate of turnover is "one of the most reliable measures of dissatisfaction amongst provincial government employees with present wages and working conditions."

CRACKDOWN COMING

Union to Police 'Moonlighters'

Three hundred local machinists have decided to police their own ranks against "moonlighters" with the threat of withdrawal of union cards from any members who take two jobs.

Ernie Orchin, business representative of Machinists, Steamfitters and Helpers Union, Local 3, said today members passed a resolution aimed at moonlighters at a meeting Monday night.

The penalty is aimed at preventing members from taking a second job that could be filled by an unemployed person. However, all cases would be judged on their individual merits.

The action follows frequent and bitter attacks on "moonlighters" by Victoria labor leaders during the past several months.

"But this resolution applies only to our own members," Mr. Orchin said. "We don't care what other jurisdictions do."

He did not say whether or not there were any known cases of "moonlighters" within the machinists' local.

The membership also donated $300 as its contribution to the Victoria Labor Council fund for helping establish a senior citizens housing development in the city.

Widely Known Taxi Dispatcher, Sportsman Dead

Well known manager of softball and basketball teams in Victoria in years past, Wallace "Wally" Smith, 35, a native of this city, died in hospital Monday.

Funeral will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday from McCall's with the Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, officiating. Burial will be in Royal Oak.

Mr. Smith was known to thousands of Victorians not only as a sportsman but as a dispatcher for the C & C Taxi Service Ltd.

He is survived by the widow, Agnes, at the residence, 2514 Eastdowne; two brothers, Harry and Webster, and five sisters, Mrs. M. Harvey, Mrs. K. Hancock, Mrs. H. Hardy, Mrs. D. Jones, and Mrs. G. Letner, all of Victoria.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: William Phil Mattison, 2717 Belmont, Ethel S. Glenn, 633 Goldstream, each fined $35 for careless driving.

Robert Douglas Malcolm, 3469 Mayfair Drive, $50 for failing to remain on the scene of an accident, $35 for careless driving.

Garry Louis Fletcher, Moss Street, $30 for exceeding the speed limit.

Robert S. Manns, $10 for inadequate brakes, $5 for two parking violations and $10 for failing to notify the Motor Vehicle branch of a change of address.

SCIENTIFIC TEAM TELLS OF HOPES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Hitherto unknown secrets about the earth's crust will be revealed when Ripple Rock, in Seymour Narrows, is blasted early next year, if plans of a scientific team are successful.

Representatives of the Pacific Naval Laboratory, the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, and the Royal Canadian Navy today revealed what they hoped to learn from the 750-ton explosive blast.

Their main hope is to measure the variations of the depth of the earth's crust.

It is believed that mountains have "roots"—that beneath mountain ranges, the crust bulges downward in the "mantle."

The earth itself is known to be composed of a crust, averaged about 20 miles deep, then a mantle, then a core.

Little is known about the mantle, but sensitive seismographs placed at planned intervals from the Ripple Rock blast may enable scientists to come up with an accurate measurement.

The speed of the ray of elastic set up by an earthquake has been established.

At the time of the blast, the factors to be determined are the time the blast takes to travel down to the bottom of the earth's crust, and then up again to the respective seismographs.

From the elapsed time, the distance travelled by the energy rays will be determined.

LOCATION PINNED

Under circumstances of a natural earthquake, all seismographs are used to determine the epicentre of the quake. In the case of the Ripple Rock "man made earthquake," the exact location is known in advance.

Scientists will install special seismographs at key points, mainly along the right-of-way of the CPR, and hope to record the shock waves as far away as the Saskatchewan border, thus measuring the "roots" beneath the Coast Range and the Rocky Mountains.

NAVY CO-ORDINATION

To pre-check accuracy of the final findings, a test blast of 10 depth charges, totalling about one and one-half tons of explosive, will be set off in Bentinck Arm, near Bella Coola, Dec. 12, by RCN explosive experts.

Seismographs will measure this explosion at Victoria, Horseshoe Bay (Beacon Hill Park), Lillooet, Alberni, and Ripple Rock itself.

Several government agencies are co-operating closely in the project. The data will be collected and evaluated by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, with W. G. Milne in charge.

Co-ordination of the project is the responsibility of Anthony Mollet of the Pacific Naval Laboratory. Heading the RCN team is explosives specialist, Lt. K. W. Blackburn. The naval auxiliary vessel St. Anthony, under command of Cmdr. A. J. Proudfoot, will carry the depth charges to Bentinck Arm.

In every case, explosions are set off only after permission of the Federal Department of Fisheries. The charges will be set off at a depth of 300 feet, to minimize killing of fish.

Scientists emphasize that the Ripple Rock explosion, while called a "man-made earthquake," will be a very small one by standards of the major quakes which have occurred from natural causes.

Growing Old Gracefully Is an Art

The term "growing old gracefully" has nothing to do with coming apart physically. It means an inner grace, a warmth that stems from experience, a realistic acceptance of things as they are. It does not mean that the body in which you dwell must add 30 useless pounds, become bulky or shapeless. It does not mean a defeatist attitude about your personal appearance.

Watch your weight and count your calories but don't talk about them. Don't discuss your age and never ask others their age. Don't start off a conversation by saying, "When I was a girl..." Don't inform older women that you have a hard time finding the right clothes because you've put on so much weight. Take off the poundage and wear the most becoming clothes you can find in the meantime.

If you object to your grey hair, have it tinted but keep it a matter that you discuss with your hairdresser only. By following such a program, most people will be unable to pinpoint your age. And, after all, it's your affair.

Christmas duties fall to the women in this country. They do most of the shopping, address the cards, cook and entertain during the holidays, wrap and mail the family's gifts to friends and relatives. They put in long hours at making the season festive.

Whether you have a job or are a homemaker or handle both, chances are you'll have your hands full this year. So don't neglect periods of rest wherever you can squeeze them in. They are essential both to your health and good looks. You can't be bright-eyed and sparkling on Christmas Eve if you're exhausted from the weeks that went before.

The trick is to work in a catnap whenever you can. It may be only 10 or 15 minutes at odd hours but it will make all the difference in keeping you refreshed.

In the winter, your hands feel especially dry and crackly. Indoor heat and outdoor cold accomplish this. Combat dry skin by creaming your hands after each washing. And at night, before you go to bed, give them a really lavish coating of cream or lotion.

As one coating penetrates, apply another. Give your elbows the same kind of treatment to prevent that rough, grey, unattractive look. And no matter how tired you are at night, do not skip this routine. It takes only seconds and pays off with great beauty dividends.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Today I am bringing you some make-up tricks which Marlene Dietrich uses. When I asked a famous Hollywood expert to give me some of these he said, "This wonderful woman is alert every moment for new ideas that will help her improve herself in every way."

"She grasps suggestions gratefully where many women in her position would feel that they know it all. For instance, not long ago she came into the salon for some make-up, and knowing that there are always new ideas buzzing, she asked if there were anything she could do to improve her every day appearance."

Because eye lining has become so popular, the expert advised her to carry the line which is marked along the upper eyelash roots down along the rim as it leaves the lashes to go down into the corners of the eyes. When the line is continued on top of the lid to the inside corners, it is entirely too visible and artificial looking, for the lashes are missing or so sparse in this location that only the line shows.

Even though Miss Dietrich has been given an honorary membership in the Make-up Artists' Association because she accepted this suggestion enthusiastically. The expert called another thing to my attention. All of us are conscious of the way we look front view and most of us consider the back view. The expert said that few women realize that a face should be made up from the profile view as well. If you study Marlene's profile you will see that she has taken this tip to heart. Her eyebrows end at the correct place so that they will be seen to taper gracefully from the side. Eyes are lined and mascara applied so that those who are looking at her profile will be intrigued. Lips are arched enough to enhance the profile as well as the front view. Of course we should also look at our coiffure from the side.

Miss Dietrich feels that the eyes are the focal point in every face and is never seen without eye make-up. However, this is applied so artfully that the effect is natural but enchanting. All women can profit by learning more about the art of make-up.

A VISIT TO FIANCEE'S PARENTS
My son will visit his fiancée and her parents for a few days around New Year's. He has never met the family and wants to be sure to do the right thing. Will you tell us what is expected of him as a house guest?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

If your son is considerate and thoughtful at all times, he won't have anything to worry about and it will spare him the anguish of being self-conscious. He should be courteous and should willingly offer his services for any household tasks. He shouldn't monopolize his fiancée to the point of ignoring others in the family. He should be neatly dressed and keep his room tidy. If he has been taught how to make a bed, he can do that too, but he needn't be concerned if he doesn't. He should be aware of proper table manners, which is one of the most important requisites of good breeding. It is also important that he be punctual for all engagements. Being a house guest, his fiancée will probably see to that, but he should be aware of the clock anyway and plan accordingly. On his arrival, it is advisable to present his fiancée's parents with an impersonal gift, such as a box of candy or nuts; or he can arrange through your local florist to have some flowers delivered. After he returns home, he should write a sincere bread and butter letter and get it off in the mail immediately.

700 Island VLA Homes

Veterans Take Advantage of Ottawa Plan; Many Do Work Themselves

By TONY DICKASON

There have been about 700 houses built on Vancouver Island under the Veterans' Land Act since the end of the Second World War.

Total cost is about $700,000, or $10,000 a home. Approximately 400 of these homes are in the Greater Victoria area.

Home owners are mostly, of course, overseas veterans of either the 1939-45 conflict, or fighters in the Korean War. But a year's service in Canada also qualifies for help under VLA.

VLA is designed to aid ex-service personnel in adjusting to civilian life by establishing a family unit and a home.

In effect, VLA helps cut home-building costs. There's a lot of land available, including city lots, for those with qualifications. Applications are open for veterans until Jan. 1, 1960.

If a veteran, you apply; an advisory board determines whether or not you are eligible; you can get a VLA loan up to $8,100 and pay off over 25 years at an average of $28 a month.

Most recent of the VLA projects in the Victoria area is a 50-acre development in Saanich, just off the Island Highway some six miles from town.

Before next spring, 30 houses will be started or finished. Each home in the beautifully treed area will have 1.6 acres. Cost of the homes will range between $9,000 and $15,000.

About 30 per cent of veterans applying for assistance believe in the "do it yourself" principle.

Work on new VLA home will be finished by Walter Dedick in few days.

One of these is HMC Dockyard fireman Walter Dedick, 27, who has a charming 820 square foot place almost completed on Blenkinsop Road.

COST UNDER VALUE
He started building last April; has done most of the work himself; and outcome is a home which could be valued at around $10,000. Actual cost to him is $7,911.

Walter did a five-year navy stint, and saw action off Korea. He has four immediate neighbors, all of whom are VLA builders.

He can't sell his place unless he wants to lose $1,400, the amount given him as a conditional grant. After 10 years, though, he may dispose of his property.

This VLA agreement is to prevent speculative real estate projects.

This, he states, is due to "careful screening" of applicants.

Summit Talk
Rejection Hit

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith said today he is "distressed" and "disturbed" that whenever Russia proposes high-level discussion among the major powers, "unnamed, unidentified official spokesmen in Washington" reject the proposals out of hand.

The minister, undergoing questioning by the Commons external affairs committee during consideration of his department's $58,500,000 estimates, said "the time now has come to take a new look in respect of our relations with Soviet Russia."

There should be no delay in that regard, consistent with maintaining the West's defences. Recent advances in science had presented "an entirely new situation" which demanded recognition and reassessment.

During the committee's sitting he:

U.S. Moon

At Dawn

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—All is in readiness for the firing Wednesday of a slender rocket carrying America's hopes of duplicating Russia's leap into space, a navy spokesman said today.

If there have been any last-minute mechanical bugs in the navy's Vanguard missile, they have been of a minor and inconsequential nature, a source close to the firing operation said.

Only the weather could interfere with the firing, now expected for 8 a.m. E.S.T. (5 P.S.T.) Wednesday.

A weather front is expected to roll across the missile launching site some time Wednesday afternoon but too late to interfere with the firing if it goes off at the morning hour.

The navy source said everything in connection with the launching of the 72-foot, three-stage rocket that will attempt to put America's six-inch baby moon into an orbit is proceeding according to plan.

Several final checkouts were being repeated, however, to aim at perfection in the satellite launching.

Another source said that if anything had been wrong with the Vanguard it must have been strictly of a minor nature and had been corrected because there was no change in the firing schedule.

It requires good visibility and only moderate winds for a launching.

LET WORLD KNOW

If successfully orbited, the U.S. satellite will send back a radio signal to let the world know the challenge of Russia's two whirling satellites has been met.

The Vanguard test could be preceded today by the firing of a less spectacular missile, possibly a Snark, which is a long-range ramjet device hugging the earth's atmosphere at a speed slightly below that of sound.

Although billed as a scientific sideshow to the military tests going on here at a feverish pace, the scheduled Vanguard firing has brought the biggest crowds of newspapermen and official and unofficial observers here yet.

LONDON (UP)—The world's largest radio-telescope will not try to track the American earth satellite the way it did the Russian Sputnik, its director Professor A. C. B. Lovell said today. He said the American satellite is too small.

Ike Asks
Congress
For More

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower outlined to congressional leaders today plans for a $2,000,000,000 increase in the defence budget, devoted primarily to missiles and anti-submarine equipment.

Chairman Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) of the Senate Republican policy committee said as he came out of a five-hour White House conference that the president told the Congress members he will ask for $3,940,000,000 in foreign aid funds.

This compares with $3,436,000,000 appropriated in Congress this year in new money for mutual security.

Bridges told reporters that despite economies which may be made elsewhere, a $2,000,000,000 increase in military spending will carry the defence budget figure above $40,000,000,000.

Spending in the current year has been $38,400,000,000.

PRESIDES 2½ HOURS

Eisenhower himself spent 2½ hours in the session, taking part in the opening portion devoted to plans for the NATO summit meeting starting in Paris Dec. 16, and coming back for the defence discussion later.

Vice-President Richard Nixon took over the chair while the president, recuperating rapidly from the mild stroke he suffered eight days ago, was absent.

A major item reported under discussion in the NATO program part of the talk was reported to be a revision of the law to permit much broader exchange of nuclear weapons information with U.S. allies.

The law as it now stands allows exchange of information on nuclear power plants but forbids giving out information on weapons design or transferring such weapons themselves.

Of Goya Book

Art Gallery Exhibition Off Following Telephone Message

Fourteen words slurred into a telephone forced cancellation of the world's first exhibition today of the Goya sketch book that recently put Victoria on the international art treasures map.

The cloak-and-daggerish twist of an anonymous telephone tip added another strange chapter to the story surrounding the 200-year-old sketch book, discovered to be a Goya after being valued at $20 here, and now valued at $465,000.

"I just want to warn you, there is guys out to get your Goyas," an uneducated, male voice told Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery, at 7.45 p.m. Monday.

TOOK NO CHANCES

Crank or criminal? Mr. Graham and Cmdr. P. F. Fairfull, gallery president, didn't know but they took no chances.

After consultation with owner J. P. E. Klavervyden, they cancelled the two-day exhibition which was to have started this morning.

The call came only hours after the gallery had started.

Russians Urge Peaceful End
To Algeria Strife

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia called today for an end to the fighting in Algeria and urged a peaceful solution beneficial to both the French and Algerians.

In an unusually mild speech, delegate Arkady Sobolev told the UN's 82-nation political committee that all people have a right to freedom and self-government.

But, he added, Russia recognizes the existence of France's special ties with Algeria and would welcome an agreement that would be to the interest of both sides.

FREDERICTON (CP)—The New Brunswick attorney-general's department said today a 13-year-old boy has been charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday of 25-year-old Joseph E. Sullivan, Grafton, N.B.

Accidents Mar Start
Of Safe-Driving Week

Three traffic deaths in Greater Victoria since 5 p.m. Monday have stunned citizens and blackened the Safe-Driving Week campaign.

Dead are:

John Knowles, 73, 920 Dunsmuir,
David Clarke, 19, Oldfield Road, Central Saanich,
Charles Laurie Sheats, 65, 1140 Queens.

Three deaths arising from separate traffic accidents within 24 hours is believed to be a record for Greater Victoria.

Sheats died in hospital after he was in collision with a car at Vancouver and Pandora at 5.08 p.m. Monday.

Clarke was dead on arrival at hospital after he was in collision with a car on Patricia Bay Highway at 6.35 a.m. today.

All victims suffered multiple head injuries.

City police said driver of the car involved in the latest fatal accident at noon today was Albern Carlow, 2607 Selwyn, Langford, who was turning from Yates to proceed south on Government.

Eye-witnesses said the pedestrian Knowles ran on to Government intending to cross to the east side, apparently, when the accident occurred.

Police were notified at 12.26 p.m. The hospital reported Knowles died at 1.30.

Death brings to 15 the number of traffic fatalities this year in Greater Victoria.

It is the eighth in Victoria city.

Of all victims, 12 were pedestrians.

The pensioner Sheats had additional bodily injuries, including a fractured right leg, large gash on the left leg and a possible fractured left arm.

The youth, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert Clarke, live at 251 Tolcross, was delivering papers on his bicycle, travelling north on the highway at Glidden when a car travelling in the same direction approached from behind.

Driver Blinded By Headlights

Central Saanich police said the driver, A. E. Hornby, 3914 Prestwood, apparently was blinded momentarily by headlights of an oncoming car.

It was dark and raining and Hornby was on his way to work at James Island, police said. He was travelling at about 45 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone, he told officers.

The driver said that when the oncoming car passed him he suddenly saw the cyclist "right in front of me." He swerved his car but the right front fender came into contact with the bicycle.

The youth was wearing dark clothing, police said. His bicycle was equipped with a reflector.

Central Saanich fire department ambulance and police took the youth to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

He lived with guardians Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCarthy on Oldfield Road.

An inquest has been set for 10 a.m. Friday at Haystack Funeral Home.

Newspaper officials said it is the first death of a carrier involved in an automobile collision in Greater Victoria.

City police said the pedestrian, Sheats was walking in a crosswalk from the south to north side of Pandora.

TORONTO (CP)—The Star announced its street-sale price will be doubled to 10 cents from five cents, effective Monday, Dec. 9.

The Star said the higher price is made necessary by steadily mounting production costs.

Power Line Instruction Recommended

COURTENAY—Electrocution of Comox airman Sgt. W. D. MacKay, 30, when his car hit a power pole has prompted a coroner's jury recommendation that the B.C. Power Commission should publicize what to do when power lines are down.

Sgt. MacKay died Saturday when his car was in contact with lines carrying 13,000 volts. The jury suggested the BCPC notify the public of the proper procedure to follow if any power lines are down or objects are in contact with them.

700 Island VLA Homes

By TONY DICKASON

There have been about 700 houses built on Vancouver Island under the Veterans' Land Act since the end of the Second World War.

Total cost is about $700,000, or $10,000 a home.

Approximately 400 of these homes are in the Greater Victoria area.

Home owners are mostly, of course, overseas veterans of either the 1939-45 conflict, or fighters in the Korean War. But a year's service in Canada also qualifies for help under VLA.

VLA is designed to aid ex-service personnel in adjusting to civilian life by establishing a family unit and a home.

In effect, VLA helps cut home-building costs.

There's a lot of land available, including city lots, for those with qualifications. Applications are open for veterans until Jan. 1, 1960.

If a veteran, you apply; an advisory board determines whether or not you are eligible; you can get a VLA loan up to $8,100 and pay off over 25 years at an average of $28 a month.

Most recent of the VLA projects in the Victoria area is a 50-acre development in Saanich, just off the Island Highway some six miles from town.

Before next spring, 30 houses will be started or finished. Each home in the beautifully treed area will have 1.6 acres. Cost of the homes will range between $9,000 and $15,000.

About 30 per cent of veterans applying for assistance believe in the "do it yourself" principle.

One of these is HMC Dockyard fireman Walter Dedick, 27, who has a charming 820 square foot place almost completed on Blenkinsop Road.

He started building last April; has done most of the work himself; and outcome is a home which could be valued at around $10,000. Actual cost to him is $7,911.

Walter did a five-year navy stint, and saw action off Korea. He has four immediate neighbors, all of whom are VLA builders.

He can't sell his place unless he wants to lose $1,400, the amount given him as a conditional grant. After 10 years, though, he may dispose of his property.

This VLA agreement is to prevent speculative real estate projects.

This, he states, is due to "careful screening" of applicants.

... SUMMIT

4. Said recent United Kingdom-U.S. arms shipments to Tunisia, irritating France, have weakened inter-NATO consultation during the last three weeks. French resentment had not been eradicated "but the atmosphere will be much improved by the time the heads of government get together."

5. Announced a $366,500 reduction in his department's estimates, mainly in a $125,000 allocation by the previous Liberal administration's budget for construction and improvements to Canadian missions abroad.

6. Announced that Canada is shortly to appoint a high commissioner to Malaya.

Mr. Smith said he had read press reports of recent Russian suggestions, including one by Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev, that a summit meeting of the major powers be held.

Canada, however, had not been approached directly, being a middle power.

Nonetheless, "it is not the view of the Canadian government that we should say 'no' or 'yes' ('no' in Russian) to a Russian proposal," he said.

There was much that could be done, "while keeping up the payment of our premium on our defence insurance policy of NATO," in the way of cooperation in human and cultural fields. Points of friction could be the subject of patient negotiation.

Questioned by Lester Pearson (L. Algoma East), his predecessor in office, Mr. Smith said all he knows about summit conference proposals has been from press reports. But "I must say frankly that I am distressed at the reception by 'official' sources and reliable spokesmen' in Washington to any proposal for a high level conference."

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre) asked to whom Gen. Partridge is responsible. Mr. Smith said the question should be asked in the committee 'studying' defence estimates.

Mr. Pearson said Gen. Partridge had been quoted as saying he gets his orders from the U.S. government. If he were absent would Air Marshal Slemmon get his orders from the U.S. government?

Or did the commanders really get their orders from the two governments?

Mr. Smith did not answer. CCF Leader Coldwell asked, "Are we to go away with the impression that we have handed our defence wholly over to the military and that there is no political control?"

When Mr. Smith said no, Mr. Knowles commented: "Mr. Coldwell's apprehension is well-founded."

Day's Donations Highest

Victorians cracked the "donation barrier" Monday by giving $669 to the Times' "T-Bricks for Korea" Fund.

They beat last Friday's donation high by $69 to bring today's total to $2,499.

Korean youngsters who are asking only for healthy bodies may yet have their happiest Christmas ever.

But before Victoria can give them a Christmas gift of a children's TB outpatients' pavilion, we need $9,500. And there are only 22 donating days before Christmas.

Brick by brick, Times' readers are building that pavilion in the war-saddened city of Seoul. The Hotel Douglas led Monday's donations with $100—1,000 bricks. The boys' Hi-Y Club of Esquimalt High School followed close behind with a generous donation of $25.

One of the most touching do-

Donations came from a Victorian who wishes to remain anonymous "in gratitude for pension increase." The pensioner enclosed $10—one dollar more than the federal increase on pension cheques at the end of November.

Many other donations are coming from people who give in the memory of late loved ones.
